Moon's Dangers May Be Turned Into Assets

somewhat condensed, is an article on the subject written by Dr. Fritz Zwicky, professor of astrophysics at California Institute of Technology.

By PROF. FRITZ ZWICKY

On our march into the universe the moon is a natural first stage, which will be followed by journeys to the various planets and their moons. The main purpose of these journeys will be the exploration and later on the reconstruction of as many members of the solar system as possible for the purpose of making them habitable.

The moon appears to be a most inhospitable place because of its extreme heat and cold its exposure to dangerous types of solar and cosmic radiation and because of its lack of a life-sustaining atmosphere, A closer look, however, reveals that circumstances on the moon are much better than they appear at first sight.

From our knowledge of the composition of the earth, sun, the planets, meteors and comets we may assume with confidence that all of the essential chemical elements will be found on the moon. With some Imagination and determination toward the development of a few rather simple devices it should be possible to make the moon readily habitable and actually quite an exciting place to

The seemingly adverse conditions on the moon actually in many ways facilitate the operation of devices for the production of oxygen, water and food, as well as fuels and propellants for conventional power plants and

Take for example the absence of an atmosphere; that is, a perfect vacuum is curiously enough one of the most valuable means of processing essential materials into things which we use in everyday life. Metals such as aluminum and some of its alloys can be produced with a purity and a "specificity" of properties not attainable even in the highest artificial vacuum in our laboratories. Such metals can for instance be welded by simply hammering them together. Indeed, as my colleague Prof. Pol Duwez has pointed out, no oxides will be formed on our metals which in the earth's atmosphere prevent perfect cohesion of two pieces of metal on cold contact alone and thus necessitate hot welding or riveting.

In the full glare of the sun the lunar surface tem-perature rises above that of boiling water. During the lunar night it sinks to below 150 degrees Fahrenheit. Astronauts therefore must dig in or construct shelters immediately upon their arrival on the moon in order to protect themselves against temperature extremes as well as against the dangerous particle radiations which are

Chloromycetin Use Brings Warning on Deadly Dangers

By BEN ZINSER

The California Department of Public Health soon will begin an investigation of the controversial antibiotic chloramphenicol.

The drug, prescribed under the trade name Chloromycetin, is suspected of having caused some of the 405 deaths from aplastic anemia in California during the past eight years.

Aplastic anemia is a lifethreatening condition in which there is severe damage to the bone marrow which manufacturers red blood corpuscies.

As state health officials announced the investigation, an eminent blood specialist warned doctors of the dangers of chloramphenicol in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Dr. Philip Condit, Berkeley head of the Health Depart ment's communicable-disease section, said the California survey will begin in about a

L.a.C. Says: Frightening Trend

It is easy to become complacent about the cost of government. But if one takes a look at the trend of federal tax collections over the past 60 years it should cause apprehension as to what is in store for us in the ing to doctors, in the pages future. The big spending programs promised by the Democratic platform and its successful candidate inflicate the upward trend will be greatly accelerated. The question is, how much more can the economy

Commerce Clearing House, Inc., gives a sample of collections by the Internal Revenue Service during the past 60 years and its costs of collections and per capita costs-meaning the cost for each man, woman and child in the country. It is as follows:

		Cost of Collect-	Tax Per
Year`	Collections	ing Per $100	Capita
1900	$ 295 million	$1.58	$ 3.98
1940	5,340 million	1.12	40.40
1950	38,957 million	.59	250.83
1960	91,774 million	.40	508.17

This shows the per capita federal collections have doubled in 10 years. They are 12 times as much as they were 20 years ago. This, of course, takes in the cost of World War II and the Korean War. But more than half of the increase is for nonmilitary costs such as farm subsidies, foreign aid, increased civilian employes and general civilian programs.

It will be noted that the cost of the IRS collections is now only 40 cents for each $100 compared with $1.12 20 years ago. But the difference in cost is now largely paid for by employers who collect income and excise taxes for the government. It has become an insidious method of collecting vast sums. The workers have come to think of their pay as the net amount of their check. But they are paying the taxand will pay much more if the Kennedy spending program is put through.

'The general attitude of the public is to shrug off such statistics with the feeling that nothing can be done about it, so why worry. This is the sure way to encourage increasing the tax burden. Something can be done if the people will take the trouble to organize into groups to protest the spiraling trend. Their group or individual protests to their elected officials can be yery effective. It is time to plan such protests as Congress meets in January to pass upon what may be the greatest spending program in our history. A look at per capita costs of government should convince even the most apathetic individual that something needs to be done.—L.A.C.

U.S. Blames Russia for War in Laos

Hare's office, the State Department announced, Hare took the occasion to renew U. S. insistence that the two fliers be freed.

Hare told the envoy he wanted to "emphasize our deep concern" over continued detention of the two men and "to state how important it is to the relaionships beween our two countries that these men be promptly released."
Olmstead and McKone were members of a six-man crew aboard the aircraft. They were the only survivors.

The U.S. note on the situation in Laos rejected Soviet charges that the United States had taken aggressive actions to provide heavy arms to the pro-American forces of Gen. Phoumi Hosavan. The United States replied that the Soviet charge that Laos army troops had been given arms recently was completely false. It said the army had been equipped with M24 tanks and 105-millimeter howilzers prior to the outbreak of rebellion Aug. 9 and added:

The United States has not in fact supplied any equipment of this type to Laos since 1957, The United States has never supplied 120-milli-meter mortars, armed aircraft, or armed or armored vessels to Laos. The United States has not brought any arms or ammunition into Laos since the end of November. No United States-supplied helicopters have been used to direct artillery fire."

THE U. S. note declared:

'The responsibility for the present fraticidal Laos, about which the Soviet government claims to be concerned, rests squarely and solely upon the Soviet government and its partners.

The American note rejected Soviet charges of U.S. interference in the Laos crisis. It said United States policy is to support the little southeast Asian kingdom in the maintenance of its independence and integrity. The note added:

Such support will con-

More Favor for Algeria Vote Sought

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) - A move was made Saturday night to get more votes for a resolution calling for a U. N. referendum in Algeria on the political future of that region, scene of a sixyear-old rebellion against French rule.

Cyprus submitted an amendment to a 24-nation Asian-African resolution on the subject that will come up in the assembly Monday,

The resolution, recognizing lgeria's right to self-deta mination, won the committce's endorsement Thursday by a vote of 47-20-well over the two-thirds majority needed for final approval. The key paragraph got a vote of only 38-33. That paragraph would have the assembly say it "decides that a referendum shall be conducted in Algeria, organized, i controlled and supervised by the United Nations, whereby the Algerian people shall freely determine the destiny of their entire country."

Garden on Moon Will Yield Cocktails

sporadically being ejected from the sun. With the aid of solar furnaces the dust, sand or gravel on the moon's surface can readily be melted and cast into bricks. Also, available rocks may be hot welded to build walls for shelters.

Construction on the mdon will be easier than on! the earth since all weights of materials are reduced to one sixth because of the lower pull of gravity. A man thus can handle huge beams, plates and blocks for construction.

The astronauts' next concern will be to fill the shelters with a breathable atmosphere and to produce water and foodstuffs out of the moon's surface materials. For these purposes the simplest and most readily available power source is the radiation from the sun which can be concentrated with solar furnaces. Each group of astronauts will mount a number of these devices to produce water, oxygen, nitrogen, foodstruffs, propellants and power.

THE FURNACES consist of flat and of concave mirrors which can be adjusted from time to time, or with a simple drive are made to follow the course of the sun and continually focus radiation onto a spot on the moon's surface which is tightly covered by a transparent bell jar. Water can be obtained first. The igneous rocks in the earth's crust contain from 1 to 10 per cent of water of crystallization Similar percentages may be expected on the moon, at least in shallow subsurface layers. This water will be driven out of the rocks as they are exposed to the intense heat at temperatures of over 5400 degrees Fahrenheit, in the focal spots of the solar furnaces. The water vapour steaming out of the rocks can be used to drive turbines and thus produce power before condensed into water for drinking purposes. The steam can also be condensed directly or be used for assimilation in a closed plant garden.

Carbon dioxide is the next gas to be liberated from the rocks in the hot focal spot of a solar furnace, where for instance calcium carbonate will be dissociated (broken apart) into carbon dioxide and calcium oxide. The carbon dioxide may subsequently he fed through a covered garden for digestion in chlorella algae and the like, or it may be dissociated into oxygen, carbon and carbon monoxide in a secand more efficient solar furnace which is capable of generating temperatures of 7000 to 8000 degrees Fahrenheit. For these processes the use of plants will of course be far more efficient for long term operations.

Large transparently covered gardens can easily be constructed which make direct and efficient use of sunlight and which thus climinate the necessity of too many or too large solar furnaces. In addition, the chlorella algae, with the aid of sunlight produce food rapidly through their fantastic ability to synthesize starches and proteins from carbon dioxide, water, sulfur, nitrogen and phosphorwhich we can make available in our moon garden. It will be no problem to convert some of the starches into alcohol for an occasional cocktail,

AS TO THE SIZE of the mirrors which are necessary to carry out the described operations, a solar furnace of one square yard aperture collects and concentrates enough energy to generate 70 gallons of oxygen per hour at atmospheric pres-sure from the dissociation of carbon dioxide, from water or from any of the metal oxides available.

This is enough for more than 15 persons, since the amount of oxygen used up in breathing is about four gallons per person per hour. On the other hand, for the production of water we need a larger solar furnace. Unless our astronauts were lucky and found rocks right away in which the water of crystallization is very loosely bound they would need a solar furnace the size of the 200-inch mirror of the great Hale telescope on Palomar Mountain to produce a lavish six gallons of water a day. Or, if they can

These elements may subsequently be reacted with either oxygen or hydrogen in combustion chambers which are designed for the operation of gas turbines or, if need be, or jet engines and rockets.

THE ASTRONAUT may also use a very efficient solar furnace which reproduces temperatures high enough not only to dissociate the rocks on the moon down to their chemical elements, but to ionize most of the latter. In a properly designed focal reaction chamber built, for instance. from some carbide with a very high melting point jets or electrically charged can be produced and shot through the space between the poles of a magnet. From electrodes placed on both sides of the jet, parallel to it and to the magnetic field, an electric current can be drawn off this "jet induction generator."

Oxygen, water, food, propellants and energy stored in batteries must be produced in excess quantity during the lunar day for purposes of storage and use during the lunar night, about two weeks long each. Also the shelter and especially the food raising gardens must be protected against the intense cold.

Sumarizing, we must emphasize that none of the oppreceding goes beyond scientific and technological knowledge which is already at hand. Some slight degree of imagination and an indomitable determination is all that is needed for success. It is to be hoped that the scientists, engineers, the military and the politi-cians of the free nations will wake up and remove all of those individuals among the policy makers who, because of a multitude of aberrations and because of weakness, inertia and plain stupidity have let the Russians get the jump on

of all the lighter chemical elements in the rocks and can transform them with tremendous release of energy into the heavier elements, iron being the ultimate goal. In conclusion it should be pointed out that a few shots at the moon with small projectiles and spectroscopic observation of their impact with the 200-inch telescope on Palomar would give us much valuable information about the mineral composition on the moon's surface.

I have therefore advocated the launching of fast pellets from rocket-born, shaped explosive charges for the past 15 years.

4 Americans Convicted in Cuban Court

court Saturday completed the espionage trial of four Americans accused of spying on the Havana offices of Red China's New China news agency.
The Fidel Castro regime demanded 30-year prison sentences for all four. The court said it will announce its verdict Monday.

The four, jailed since Sept. 15,, are Eustace Danbrunt, 34, a mechanical engineer from Baltimore, Md.; Edmund K Taransky, 30, an electrical engineer from New York City; Daniel L. Carswell, 42, also an electrical engineer, from Eastchester, N.Y., and Mario Nodio, a dance instructor and nationalized U.S. citizen who formerly lived in New York

THE DEFENDANTS were formally charged with "crimesagainst the stability of the state" and specifically accused of setting wiretaps in the New China news agency offices allegedly to learn about a trade treaty and the establishment of diplomatic relations between Cuba and Red China.

The prosecutor, Lt. Fernando Flores, told the court the Castro regime was what he called generous with the dependants in asking 30-year terms, "In the United States they would have been con demned to the electric chair,' Flores said. "They were committing espionage for the United States," he added.

The government charged that two U.S. embassy secretaries were implicated in the case and expelled them along with another embassy employee identified as Robert

THE DEFENDANTS dressed in in blue prison unidenied the charges from the witness stand. The engineers said they had beer hired to repair some electronic equipment in Neet's apartment, which was in the same building as the Communist Chinese agency.

Meanwhile, in Santa Clara another tribunal sentenced Diosado Martinez Hernandez to death by a firing squad for participating in a Dec. 8 plot to hijack a Cuban airliner and force the pilot to fly the plane to the United States. Four men already have been executed on the same charges No date was set for the Martinez execution.

Santa Carted Away to Jail

NORTH - HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Police officer Al Ci-maglia was pretty unpopular with the youngsters Saturday when he tossed Santa Claus in his patrol car and carted him away to jail.

Santa was a life-sized dummy found along with five stuffed animals on the lawn of Mrs. Coveny-apparently placed there as a prank.

"Boy, did I get the looks from the kids," said Cimaglia.

PO Boss Ex-Aide to Adlai

J. Edward Day, appointed postmaster general Saturday by President-elect Kennedy, played a prominent role in the Illinois administration of former Gov, Adlai Stevenson.

Stevenson, Kennedy's amhassador to the United Nations, appointed Day his aide for legal and legislative matters when he assumed the governorship in 1949. A year later, Day was named Illinois insurance commissioner, a post he held until 1953.

Day's public life has been characterized by civic activities rather than party-line politics. He once headed a bipartisan committee for constitutional amendment in Illinois, and led the 1959 YMCA he now lives

DAY, 46, was born in Jacksonville, Ill., and grew up in 'Springfield, Ill. He is vice president in charge of western operations for the Prudential Life Insurance Co.

BORN IN CALIFORNIA McNamara Honor Complete Student at Cal.

WASHINGTON-A registered Republican, San Francisco-born and graduated from the University of California in 1937, is President-elect Kennedy's choice for secretary of defense.

Robert Strange McNamara, president of Ford Motor Co., will give up between $3 million and $4 million in potential income to serve four years in the cabinet. He has divested himself of 24,250 shares of Ford stock and an option to buy 30,000 additional shares to accept the government post. His salary at Ford was $410,853 last year. As secretary of defense he will receive $26,000.

He will also resign as a director of Scott Paper Co. and sell 100 shares of Scott stock, valued at $90 a share.

McNAMARA WAS a Phi Beta Kappa student on the Berkeley campus. After his graduation, he attended Harvard School of Business for two years. Following a year with the accounting firm of Price, Waterdrive at Los Angeles where house & Co., he returned to Harvard as assistant professor of business administration.

During World War II, McNamara saw service in Britain and the Far East with the Air Corps, rising to the rank of lieutenant colonel. He began his meteoric rise at Ford in 1945, Starting in the company's planning and fiancial offices, he advanced rapidly to the post of general manager of the automotive divisions.

Henry Ford II announced McNamara's election as company president a little over a month ago. As slepping stones to the presidency he had held in quick succession the posts of controller, assistant general manager of Ford division, group vice president in charge of car and truck

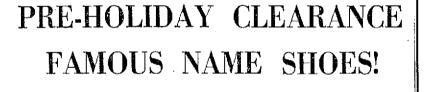

THE EXECUTIVE'S father managed a wholesale shoe company in San Francisco and the son's flare for facts and figures was evidenced in his early days as a student at UC. In his sophomore year he won Phi Beta Kappa honors, majoring in mathematics, economics and

In Detroit, he showed few traits in common with the cigar-clenching, pungent-voiced big wheels of the automotive world. McNamara was considered quiet, thorough and studious on the job. He was an early-rising, lanternburning type, devoted to a personal 11-hour day in fac-tories where the eight-hour day was the late Henry Ford's biggest bequest to the men in overalls.

McNamara plays hard, too, with such blood-stirring pastimes as skiing and mountain climbing.

THE FORMER Margaret Craig of Alameda is Mrs. McNamara. A 19-year-old daughter, Margaret, attends Stanford University, while Kathleen, 16, and Robert, 10, attend public schools in Ann Arbor, Mich.

The McNamaras attend First Presbyterian Church of Ann Arbor, where the secretary-designate is an elder. Although he is registered as a Republican, McNamara describes himself as an independent politically.

Germany Urges NATO Summit Meet

PARIS (AP)—Prosperous West Germany called Saturday for a single NATO summit conference in the spring to sort out a growing tangle of alliance problems largely re-sulting from America's dollar drain.

Defense Minister Franz Josef Strauss unexpectedly tossed this proposal into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's ministerial meeting wrestling now with financial problems and the threat of Russia's growing nuclear might.

His suggestion would give other Western chiefs of government a chance to confer with John F. Kennedy after the new American President has assumed office and got his administration running.

New 'Buy-U.S.' Order Issued

WASHINGTON (UPI)-The Defense Department Saturday issued a new "buy American" order which will bring to nearly $350 million annually the total expected to be saved in the current drive to trim military spending overseas and reduce the flow of dollars abroad.

The latest order prohibits purchase of foreign goods or services with Congress-appropriated funds, except in cases where U. S. prices or bids are more than 25 per cent above those of foreign firms.

Rapid Transit Held at Bay

San Francisco Needs $ Billion to Give Trains a Play

(While Long Beach area residents are concerned over impending loss of red car lines, northern California citizens are debating plans for a new mass transit system in the bay area. Here is a report on the San Francisco outlook),

By JOHN WHEELER

SAN FRANCISCO (P)-The private automoble may do what one of history's worst earthquakes couldn't - destroy San Francisco as a cultural and commercial center.

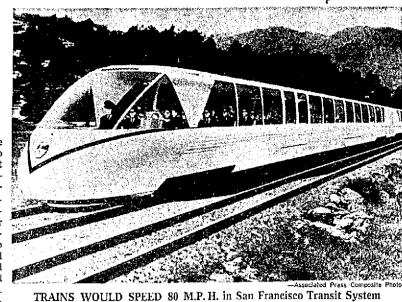

The trouble, as in burgeoning urban super-areas over the country, is too much traffic, too few roadways and too little parking. The proposed answer is a 100-mile rapid transit system which would cost nearly one billion dollars.

As planned by the Bay Area Rapid Transit District, the system will be built around, accelerate and decelerate as from the flight of the worker figure. fast as human comfort al to the suburbs and the result. In addition traffic engineers preference to less convenient pecially who should pay for lows. In terms of persons moved freeway lanes will be needed. Worse, say the planners, per mile per minute, this along the southern approach the construction of new free would equal 30 lanes of automobile freeway.

Officials of the district confidently say their system will be built because it must be built. But some leaders and urban planners here are concerned that political squabbling and an American reluctance to give up the luxury of driving to work may cause the situation to deteriorate to the point of no repair before action is taken.

DISTRICT OFFICIALS say financing and public apathy are their worst enemies. At present present general obligation bonds, which must be approved by two-thirds of the voters, appear to be the only major source of capital, And in the mushrooming suburban areas, rapid transit is just another voice that must compete for dollars against the strident demands of schools, sewers, water systems and

I could recognize, even very young, the pos sible use of gold. But frank incense, a gum resin from the balsum family which gives off a pleasant odor, and myrrh, a bitter resin from various shrubs in Arabia and eastern Africa, seemed hard-Jy worth carrying over the desert in winter, unless you expected to find a place which needed purifying. Pet haps that was so, and the aromatic smell of burning incense was exactly what the barn in Bethlehem needed.

THE CHILDREN would consult with mother about gifts we could make, each of us in turn going to her and planning the things we would give the others. And of course, all of the children met to decide what we could make for mother, and father too, although he expected less and certainly received

BUILDING REACHES UP ON TIPTOES

Eyes of Long Beach Harbor visitors have been caught recently by the port's "transit shed on stilts" at Berths 3 and 4, Pier A.

About a third of the 120 by 832-feet shed-a weight of 1,200 tons-has heen lifted 18 feet in the air by twenty 70-ton jacks as a stage in a $2,000,-000 reconstruction project made necessary by subsidence.

Work performed under the port's contract with Guy F. Atkinson will include reconstruction of the wharf, raising and rehabilitation of the 14year-old transit shed and raising of its back area, together with replacement of railroad tracks and utility lines.

About 300,000 cubic yards of fill be required to raise the area from the water side of the shed east to Pico Ave., according to L. O. Temple, principal harbor engineer.

When the job is completed in early 1962, Long Beach Harbor will be one of the few major ports in the world with no timber wharves. The Atkinson contract calls for replacement of the timber piles at A-3 and 4, the only wooden wharf structure left in the harbor, with pre-stressed concrete

Marina Slip Rates Shouldn't Undercut Private Operators

THE PRESSURE will be on City Councilmen at City Hall Monday morning when they meet to consider a proposal to increase slip rental fees for the Long Beach Marina.

Boat owners, supported by a sympathetic Marina Advisory Committee, will argue vigorously for retention of the present, comparatively-low fee schedule.

At the same time, operators of private boat anchorages in the area will argue just as hard for an increase in fees, charging that existing Marina rates are unfair to private enterprise.

ACTUALLY, THE PROBLEM before the Council is not merely one of deciding what is best for either the boat owners or the private operators. What the Council must decide is what is best for the general public and what rate schedule will reflect to the city's credit as administrator of its tidelands trust.

In examining this subject, we suggest that the Council first recall the primary reason for the city's developing this small boat harbor. There was a shortage of slips in the area, and it was decided that the fastest and most practical way to meet that need was by construction of an 1,800-berth marina with tide-

The purpose was not to subsidize boat owners with tideland oil revenue. The purpose was not to drive private slip operators out of business. The purpose was not to discourage further development of small boat landings on a private basis.

WHEN LONG BEACH VOTERS and state officials in 1956 approved expenditure of tideland funds to build the marina, they had every right to expect that the city would operate it on a profitable basis.

When viewed in the light of the city's overall trust obligations, the marina serves a relatively small percentage of the people. If it operates at a loss, this diverts funds which would be otherwise available for beach developments and other similar improvements of widespread public benefit. By the same token, if it shows a profit, the marina frees revenue for broader trust uses.

In our opinion, the rates for the marina should be established in accordance with the rules required of a private operator. If this course were followed, a reasonable rate of return on the public investment could be determined only after consideration of development costs, land values, depreciation and taxes.

IF THIS APPROACH WERE FOLLOWED, chances are the marina slip rental rates would have to be adjusted upward and would become more in line with those of private operators. The charge of unfair competition could not be levied against the city, and development of additional private anchorages would be encouraged.

Also, the city could not be accused of subsidizing a minority of boat owners at the expense of the general public. And any funds saved or earned on marina operation could be used to good advantage in operating and maintaining facilities for the general public, either in the marina area or along the shoreline.

Willmore's Plan for City Is Lauded

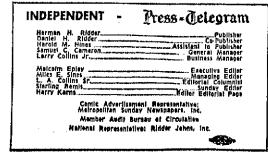

By R. WINSTON TUCKER

WILLIAM WILLMORE'S plan for our city was well thought out. Every home or business site was to face the sunny side of the street during some part of the day. Lots were laid out so that each one fronted on the east, south or west. On a clear day everyone was assured of the sun being in his eyes at least once during a 24-hour period. With two exceptions all north-south avenues would be 100 feet wide and the streets running east and west would have a width of 80 feet.

AMERICAN AVENUE WOULD START at Ocean Avenue and extend north through the American Colony. It would be 124 feet wide with Eucalyptus trees down its center. Ocean Avenue would follow the contour of the coast line. Seventy-five feet of its proposed 175-foot width would be planted in trees along the south side. The other 100 feet would constitute the highway. No buildings were to be built south of Ocean Avenue except for one or two

MR. WILLMORE DESIRED THAT EVERY citizen and tourist have an unobstructed, smog-free view of the ocean with Santa Catalina furnishing the background.

Lots were set aside for public purposes. A library was planned where our city hall now stands. The block north of Third Street between Locust and American was reserved for a church with grounds for camp meetings. Lincoln Park earlier known as "Pacific Park" is still in its original location.

Kennedys Lower Boom on Bickering Democrats in N.Y.

WASHINGTON-Prior to the Los Angeles Democratic convention, when Jack Kennedy was scrambling for delegates, Jack's father, Joseph Patrick, held a breakfast at Hampshire House in New York.

Attending the breakfast were Carmine de Sapio, boss of Tammany Hall; Mike Pendergast, Democratic state chairman of New York; Congressman Charlie Buckley, a power in Tammany Hall; Joe Sharkey, Democratic Brooklyn leader; David Lawrence, governor of Pennsylvania; and Jake Avery, Democratic boss of Chicago.

Chief purpose of the meeting was old Joe Kennedy's demand that his son Jack be nominated on the first ballot. But De Sapio and Pendergast, with the power of delivering New York's biggest bloc of delegates, stalled and talked. Finally Joe Kennedy laid down the law.

"I insist that I get a commitment now," he said.

"We'll go on the second ballot," replied Pendergast and De Sapio.

"There won't be any second ballot, and you two guys are through," announced Kennedy.

Jake to Rescue

Last week Congressman Charlie Buckley met with the President-elect at his Georgetown home. Next day Pendergast and De Sapio got word that they were through.

The word came at a Biltmore Hotel luncheon attended by Carmine, Charlie Buckley and Joe Sharkey. As Charlie Buckley expressed it: "This is it." Mike Pendergast will be ple will demand that the adreplaced as Democratic state chairman by Peter Crotty of Buffalo, a conservative Democrat.

IT WAS NOT A MATTER of revenge, because in the end Tammany had voted for Kennedy on the first ballot, CAPITAL CAPERS but the President-elect had let it be known in no uncertain terms that he was fed up with the bickering of old guard Democrats and New Deal Democrats in New York State. The new leaders would have to make peace with Mrs. Roosevelt and former Gov. Herbert Lehman who have been trying to depose Carmine.

"I was never so mad in my life," President-elect Kennedy had said, "as when I wanted to get Mrs. Roosevelt and Gov. Lehman on a television program under the auspices of New York Democrats, and Carmine de Sapio dragged his feet. I had to call him personally to ask that Mrs. Roosevelt and Gov. Lehman appear."

NOTE-THE MAN WHO HELD the two warring New York factions together with hairpins and scotch tape during the presidential campaign was William Walton, a Georgetown, D. C., artist living near the Kennedys. Jack asked him after the campaign was over, "What did you use? Morphine or heroin?"

WHEN REP. NEWELL GEORGE of Kansas was advised by Democratic friends to stay off the religious issue because it would cost him re-election, George replied: "It's more important to elect the right man to the White House than to return me to Congress." George is now being boosted for a top job. . . . The stanchly Republican American Bankers Assn. made a significant bow to the election returns by inviting liberal Democratic Rep. Wright Patman of Texas to address a recent ABA meeting in Washington. Patman was applauded at the start of his speech, but lowered the temperature of his audience by charging that President Eisenhower had abdicated the government's monetary policies to private bankers. . . . Mrs. Frances Westerman of Fair Lawn, N. J., a double for Jackie Kennedy, is angling for an invitation to the presidential inaugural ball. She wired Mrs. Kennedy a floral donkey, made up of red, white and blue carnations, with a sign "Welcome JFK, Jr.," but no inaugural invitation has been forthcoming in reply.

A SKIN specialist says bald men really have hair-it's just hard to see. We can picture the middle-aged Lothario now, as he calls on the girl with flowers, candy. Prejudice Is and microscope.

THE LEGAL question is raised—who gets custody of the TV set when there is a divorce? Obviously, it has to be the wife. Anyone who watches television comedies knows that husbands are too stupid to be trusted with anything important.

REFLECTING ON Governor Gerry's whimsical dragon-shaped district in Massachuselts' Essex County in 1812, one automatically regards any weird-shaped dis-trict as an unfair one. Why not consider the area a big pie and cut it in even wedges? This would, of course, be the most unrealistic adventure. It would achieve, as is now the case, a community like Arcadia having segments in five Assembly districts.

Thus, a straight line may be sinister. The crooked mile is to be suspect only if it is drawn solely on the consideration of party registration. If it wheels and turns to include areas of common interest without regard to party registration-other than to avoid extravagant disparate party division -then it is honorable meander and not gerrymander.

UNFORTUNATELY, what may be an honorable intention in redistricting may pave the road for hellish objection.

Look, for example, at the suggestion in the hearings by Democratic State Central Committeewoman Dorothy LeConte. One plan, of several she and her Democratic colleagues proposed, would abolish the 46th Assembly District. That's the coastal district extending from the Inglewood area south to the Palos Verdes peninsula.

To allow included cities to join fragments in adjoining districts, the proposal would cut the 46th into four parts. four parts would become parts of four other districts, the 61st, 66th, 67th and 68th.

SOUNDS GOOD. But unmentioned by Mrs. LeConte, and unchallenged by even GOP committee members, is the fact that all four of the districts receiving new chunks are represented by Democratic assemblymen. The abolished 46th is the homeland of Republican Charles Chapel.

EDITOR:

It is completely at the mercy of the information it receives. Worst Sight Since Coxey's Army

By WALTER T. RIDDER AND ROBERT E. LEE

WASHINGTON-Newsmen keeping a freezing vigil outside President-elect Kennedy's Georgetown home here last week presented a striking sartorial contrast to their conservatively-dressed neighbors. Despite the sub-freezing weather most of the week, resident Georgetowners were clad in their customary town clothes, suitable for climbing in and out of taxicabs. But most members of the press corps, shivering on the sidewalk for hours on end, looked as if they were stationed at the South Pole. Fur hats, ear muffs and heavy boots were the order of the day when the thermometer hit 15 degrees.

This so shocked one of Kennedy's neighbors, an elderly woman, that she remarked as she walked down the street: "Good Lord, that's the most wretched sight I've seen since Coxey's Army!"

YOU HEAR A LOT ABOUT the sizable Kennedy clan these days but a local historian has produced this information about the Franklin D. February White Sales and noing gifts to youngsters and body loses. New Year's Day, when adults exchange greetings and gifts.

Dr. James H. Baltzell, assistant professor of foreign languages at State College, spent a couple of years over in France and he mails his greetings to French friends so they get there about Jan. 2.

"They tell me I'm the first with greetings. Most Frenchmen don't get their greeting cards until after Jan. 2."

BALTZELL SAYS the French, a predominantly Catholic people, mark the Christmas with a creche, or Nativity Scene in the home,

"The Christmas tree is heginning to appear in France, too. That's the American influence," Baltzell said. 'Christmas is primarily a holiday for youngsters in France and is not as commercialized as in the United States. The stores are decorated for Christmas but there is not the frantic searching for gifts. New Years is more important for adults. The French don't send Christmas cards so much; over there its more an exchange of personal letters of greeting."

The French celebration of Christmas is more of a religious event. It is generally marked with entire families attending midnight mass and then attending a "reveillon" -a big family post-midnight dinner where turkey, goose or ham is the chief item on the table.

"THE CHRISTMAS season actually extends over to Jan. 6, Epiphany, when the 'fete des roi' is marked," Baltzell said. "They keep the Nativity scenes up and on Jan. 6 add the Three Wise Men figures. A cake into which is baked a porcelain figure or a bean is served and the person getting the piece of cake with the bean or doll is the king or queen of the holiday. "Everybody drinks wine and nobody seems to get drunk."

This sort of a general arrangement ought ot satisfy everybody: Christmas gift buying for the children with less emphasis on the commer

Brazil Plane Carrying 13 Found Safe

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (A) - A Brazilian National Airlines passenger plane with persons aboard, missing since Thursday, has been found safe in the Brazilian backlands, the air force reported Saturday. . It said the plane had engine trouble after taking off from Porto Nacional in Goias state, but that no one was hurt. The plane disappeared the day after a nationwide strike of Brazilian ground crews started. The airline Friday blamed the plane's disap pearance on the strike.

The strikers want 50 per dent wage increases and Christmas bonuses. Their work stoppage has cut air operations in Brazil about 70 per cent.

Ike, Mamie Send Last Presidential Christmas Cards

WASHINGTON (/P)---President and Mrs. Eisenhower mailed out their Christmas cards Saturday.

The White House declined to say how many are on the Eisenhower's list other than to agree that the number is quite substantial.

The folded 71/2x51/2-inch card has a red band on the left side with the presidential seal embossed on it. On the outside of the card in gold lettering are the words "Seasons Greeting 1960." On the inside of the card is this

Council Unit Braced for Storm in Hearing on Fees for Marina

The latest of the Alamitos residents, Bay conflicts, already in proordinance committee.

Main issue is a proposed new fee schedule to be charged 1,800 boat owners whose craft are berthed at Long Beach Marina.

Committee members have agreed to hear opposing arguments by spokesmen for many of the owners, who favor re taining the current fee of 85 cents per foot per month, and operators of private anchor ages who contend they can not compete on that price level with the publicly-subsidized marina,

By a divided vote, ordi nance committee members have recommended an in crease in fees to $1.10.

AFTER PROTESTS - from the boat owners, the Council itself asked the committee to review the slip charges again, Then came the anchorage operators with counter-protests. Other city agencies are di vided on the question, The Marina Advisory Committee has urged retention of the 85-cent rate for at least another year, to be followed by a cost study of marina operations

Director Lawrence Mc-Dowell of the Marine Dept. which administers the smallboat harbor, had recommended a sliding scale of charges -90 cents per foot for slips 25 feet and under, $1 for those in the 30, 35 and 40fnot classes and $1.15 for slips 45 feet and over.

CHAIRMAN Robert F.Crow of the ordinance committee has scheduled the hearing for 9:30 a.m. in the City Council Chamber.

Also before the committee is a 30-page draft of a proposed ordinance revising regulations for use of shoreline and water areas in the whole Alamitos Bay section.

Many of its provisions are merely clarifications. Some are expected to generate fur-

1960 Second Best Year for Autos

DETROIT (UPI)-American car manufacturers sold more cars during 1960 than they did in any other year except 1955, but their profits didn't live up to even the previous Almost complete sales returns indicate about 6,700,000 new cars will be sold in the United States by 1961, The sales include about 500,000 imported cars, leaving about 6,200,000 sales to domestic producers.

That's more than in any other year except 1955, when 7,169,908 cars in the United makes, leaving domestic companies with sales of over 7, 100,000.

LAST YEAR was the second best year previously American car buyers bough 6,026,500 cars in 1959, in cluding a record of 609,539 imported cars, leaving about 5,400,000 to the domestic producers.

The previous runner-up for domestic cars was 1956 when 5,055,248 new cars included 98,187 foreign makes, leaving about 5,800,000 sales for American companies.

But about 31 per cent of the 1960 sales, or 1,900,000 units, were compact cars, and the companies don't make as much on the smaller cars as they do on the standard-sized cars which made up the wast majority of domestic sales before the big three of the American auto industry introduced compact cars a little over a year ago.

- · Saving ahead means you can pay cash in the future and avoid the high cost of borrowing money-when you enter a profession, take advantage of business opportunities, or make major purchases.
- Saving as you earn, during vacation for example, prevents money from being frittered away and builds capital rapidly, through systematic additions and compounded high earnings.
- Teen-age saving is a big step toward maturity—the ability to forego a present pleasure for a future benefit. There are no juvenile delinquents among teen-agers who put their money into savings accounts.

Child Can Be Poison-Prone

Some children appear to be "poison-prone," a doctor has told the American Association of Poison Control

Dr. Virginia G. Harris, of the State University of New York Upstate Medical Center at Syracuse, described a study in which 100 children who had not been poisoned were compared with 100 who had been hospitalized at least once by accidental poisoning.

Researchers found that 28 of the children in the oncepoisoned group experienced a second incident of poisoning within a year. Four of the children had three more incidents within a year,

All told, the poison group experienced 42 additional incidents of accidental poisoning. The comparison group had a total of three episodes of poisoning within a year.

The medical investigators found that the poison-prone group had these factors in common: They walked earlier, climbed more and rebelled against discipline. More of their mothers worked and more fathers were unemployed than in the comparison group. One incident of accidental poisoning was not usually enough to alert these families to keep harmful substances out of reach.

IN A CORPORATION STRUCTURE who is most likely to come up with heart trouble?

Says the eminent cardiologist Dr. Paul Dudley White of Boston:

He's a junior executive, probably striving for the top, or a white collar worker surrounded by frustrations. He's short, stocky, muscular, large-boned, tending to be bald, often an athlete. His personality is vigorous, ambitious, aggressive."

When this person eats a rich diet, neglects to get outdoor exercise and uses tobacco and alcohol excessively, he's a candidate for heart disease, Dr. White says.

The dangerous age? It's 45, How should the executive, or any sedentary worker for that matter, combat nervous strain, tension or in-

The best antidote, Dr. White says, is physical fatigue from work or exercise—a more satisfactory arrangement than taking drugs.

Dr. White expressed his views at a conference in

A TEAM OF RESEARCHERS SUGGESTS a novel treatment for stomach ulcer: The patient should rest in a prone position for long periods of time.

The researchers, reporting in the Proceedings of the Society of Experimental Biology and Medicine, say that stomach ulcers can be caused by the pulsating thrust of the aorta against the stomach. The aorta is the main trunk of the body's arterial system.

This finding requires confirmation before it can gain general acceptance by the medical profession.

AN EMINENT PSYCHOTHERAPIST says in the American Practitioner that fear and pain can be considered friends.

Dr. Joost A. M. Meerloo of New York City explains that fear and pain are part of the normal warning symptoms that tell us we have to investigate what is behind the symptoms.

Dr. Meerloo says, in addition, that not worrying can be just as dangerous as worrying too much.

such work in humans, says Dr. Clifford C. Snyder of the department of surgery at Miami University's School of Medicine. He and Dr. Robert P. Knowles, veterinarian affiliated with the school's department of experimental surgery, conducted the experiments.

Successful results in eight of 11 cases compare favorably with Soviet work in this field. Soviet scientists are said to have produced only three good results in 106 attempts.

In the Miami study, some of the severed limbs were left off for eight hours or more. Then they were successfully reconstituted with the aid of the newly developed Soviet stapling device for connecting veins, arteries and nerves. The researchers also used a special heart-lung device built by Dr. Snyder, group of 319 members of the Tulane University faculty Saturday appealed for observance of order and academic freedom in the New Orleans school crisis.

The faculty group endorsed recent statement by 100 business and professional leaders calling for an end to demonstrations

Two of the city's public elementary schools were in tegrated Nov. 14 under a federal court order. One school has been completely boycotted by white students and the other virtually boycotted since four Negro girls started first-grade classes. The Louisiana Legislature and Gov. Jimmie H. Davis, attempting to block the integration decision, are under federal court restraining or-ders not to interfere with the operation of the schools.

NONETHELESS, the Legislature has passed four bills attempting to remove the school board. Enforcement of each measure has been enjoined by the federal courts.

The Legislature began a 30-day special session - the third since Nov. 12 Saturday. Administration leaders introduced a sales-tax hike with some of the extra money slated for an aid program to white parents who want to send their children to private, segregrated co-op schools.

Vandals tossed creosote-filled light bulbs at the Methodist Church where the Rev. Lloyd A. Foreman is pastor Foreman has braved demonstrators to take his five-yearold daughter to one of the integrated schools.

The statement issued by the professors called for a legislative investigation of "campaign of harassment and destruction of property directed against those who desire to send their children to the schools to which they were assigned in accordance with the legislature's own pupil-placement law."

Detroit Cop Brutality to Be Probed

DETROIT (A) - City and county officials Saturday joined in demanding a thorough inquiry into police brutality and bias toward Negroes here.

The charges were made by two retired policemen at the U.S. Civil Rights Commission's hearing in Detroit this week. Both are Negroes

Other witnesses complained of Detroit discrimination in housing, employment, education, and administration of Police Commissioner Herbert W. Hart said he has asked Wayne County Prosecutor Samuel Olsen to review the charges of the ex-policemen. One claimed he once was beaten by a white policeman.

Mayor Louis C. Miriana said, "We want to have the charges either proved or disproved. I believe we have a good and efficient police de partment. It must not operate under any kind of a cloud."

At the hearing, several white witnesses agreed with Negro witnesses. All concurred with Gov. G. Mennen Williams there has been "a remarkable indication of interracial coming of age" since a 1943 race riot left 34 dead. 1.000 injured and a million dollars property damage in Detroit.

Packers Finish Cinderella Cycle

Packers' Fans Not Surprised

Green Bay fans took the winning by the Packers of the National Football League Western Division title in stride Saturday night—but prepared a royal welcome for the team when it comes back home today.

"We expected them to come through," was the ex-pression of most fans who had sat glued to television and radio sets during the afternoon while the Packers were beating the Los Angeles Rams 35-21.

: A local committee has been set up to welcome home the team when it arrives by chartered plane today. Each player will be introduced and given a gift—a wallet containing money. The committee has collected about $3,000 and expects to have more than that amount to give the players when they come home.

A crowd of 20,000 is expected to be on hand to greet the team,

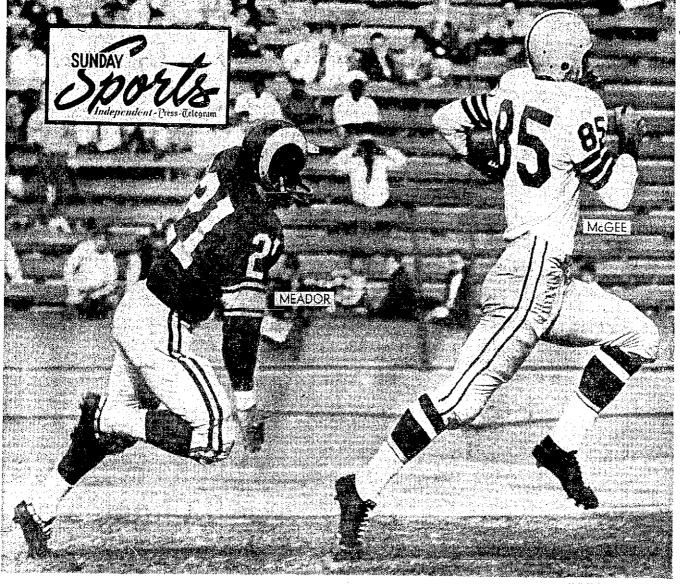

There was little demonstration on the streets of Green Bay but celebrations were lively in clubs, taverns and

The Green Bay Press-Gazette, only daily newspaper in this city of 55,000, issued its first extra edition since 1939 to herald the Packers' victory over the Rams,

Division Crown Cinched by 35-21 Win Over Rams

By JERRY WYNN

There was a hot time in the old town of Green Bay, Wis., Saturday night ... the Packers are champions again!

Winners of only one game in 1958, the once-mighty Packers completed a Cinderella climb back to the gridiron heights Saturday by conquering the Rams, 35-21, to capture their first Western Division title in IG years.

Next stop on the rags-to-riches route is Philadelphia for a showdown with the Eagles for the National League crown Dec. 26.

Saturday's game, witnessed by 53,445 at the Coliseum, might well be summed in baseball lingo. It was three strikes, and you're out . . . three mighty touchdown strikes by the Packers in the second quarter, and the Rams were out to stay. Actually, there were four Green Bay touchdowns crammed into a juncture of only nine minutes and 49 seconds. The fourth came on a blocked punt. The three spectacular passing strikes were for 59, 91 and 40 yards. The first two were thrown by Bart Starr to Max McGee and Boyd Dowler, the third from Paul Hornung to McGee.

That was that. It turned a 7-0 Packer deficit into a 28-7 halftime lead. It turned the hearts of Ram fans from a sunny Saturday blue to a stormy Sunday gray.

Arnett Ejected for Fisticuffs

However, just as the Rams went down fighting (Jon Arnett was ejected late in the game for fisticuffs), the fans went out yelling. Loyal to the end, they made so much commotion when Green Bay threatened to score in the final moments that the Packers could not hear signals and there was a delay of several minutes.

Green Bay players carried Coach Vince Lombardi off the field to celebrate their victory and final season's record of 8-4. Ram players let Bob Waterfield walk as they, contemplated a sixth place finish at 4-7-1 mark.

Saturday's game in a way symbolized the entire season for the Rams. Nothing went as it was supposed . . . except for the final score.

The Rams made 24 first downs to 12 for Green Bay, gained 455 yards to 299, and even out-rushed their vaunted rushing foes, 143 to 58.

While Packer powerhouses Jim Taylor (42 yards for 17 carries) and Paul Hornung (22 yards for 10 carries) were being stymied as no other time all season, Starr had his finest day by completing eight of nine passes for 201 yards and two touchdowns.

That was the Achilles Heel of the Ram defense. Geared to stop the Green Bay ground attack, it could not react quickly enough to the Packer passing. In fact, there was little if any Ram reaction on two of the long touchdown plays which found enemy receivers as open as gambling in Las Vegas.

No-Score Sickness Hurts Rams

For the Rams, they gained ground with unusual ease but suffered from their season-long no-score sickness.

Bill Wade hit on 19 of 26 passes for 278 yards and three touchdowns which ordinarily would add up to a brilliant performance. But he also threw two interceptions, fumbled once and was smeared for several losses. There was nothing variable about the play of Tom

Wilson. It was just good. Playing at fullback for the first time, he rambled for 90 yards in 15 carries to the arm second guessers with ammunition marked "where did the Rams hide Wilson all year!" It was Touchdown Tom who sent the Rams off to a 7-0 lead with a beautiful 40-yard run with a swing pass from Wade. He looked as elusive as Arnett as he cut back from one pocket of enemy tacklers and dodged his way through several more. The play culminated an 80-yard advance with the opening kickoff. Green Bay's scoring binge began on the next-to-last play of the first quarter. Starr hit McGee, who had cut away from defender Vern Valdez, and the fleet end from Tulane flew past the Ram safetymen to complete the 57-yard score.

The Rams then made a big move of their own when Wade hooked up with Clendon Thomas on a 58-yard pass coach Jim Owens, "and we completion . . . Thomas making a fine over-the-shoulder grab. The pass had travelled 66 yards in the air for a new Coliseum record. But the Rams could not get past the Packer 23, and Danny Villanueva missed a field goal from

'All the Way in One Play'

Taking over on their own nine, the Packers were true to the high school plea of "all the way in one play." Starr passed to Dowler, who had defender Carl Karilivacz beat by several yards as he took the ball on the 48 and raced down the sideline for a 91-yard stunner and 14-7 lead.

Disaster struck the Rams a moment later. Back to punt from his own nine, Joe Marconi received a high center from Les Richter. He was unable to adjust as might have a more experienced punter, and the whiteshirted foes swarmed in for the block. Paul Winslow was credited both with the block and subsequent recovery (he touched it before it bounded over the final white marker) for the touchdown.

An interception by former Ram Jesse Whittenton set up the next Green Bay score. From the Ram 40, Starr handed off to Hornung on the option play. He found Mc-Gee racing downfield all alone, but it took a great catch by McGee to corrall the pigskin over his head. Charlie Britt, Ollie Matson and Valdez were listed as the Ram defenders asleep on the play.

The third quarter was scoreless. The Rams cracked through early in the fourth on an 89-yard drive in seven plays. Wade passed to Carroll Dale for 13 and Thomas for 23, and a 35-yard run. With a first down on the 2, Wade passed to wide-open Arnett for the touchdown.

Fans Boo Interference Call

Its lead now cut to 28-14, Green Bay came back to score on a 74-yard march abetted by a 31-yard interference penalty against Valdez which put the ball on the Ram 3 and instigated the fans' noisy displeasure. Hornung soon scored on a one-yard plunge and converted for his 11th point of the game to boost his record-breaking season's scoring total to 176.

The Rams tallied again moments later on a 64-yard journey in 10 plays climaxed by Wade's eight-yard pass to Dale but high lighted by Arnett's fight with Ron Kramer and the ouster of both from the heated but useless

So battered were the Rams that Will Sherman came in at end to replace injured Jim Phillips. Other Rams to hobble off the field under the powerful charge of Henry Jordan, Ray Nitschke and Co. were George Strugar and Villanueva.

But as Waterfield later remarked wryly, "I expect them all back for the next game.'

Even Jim Owens Has Problems!

For a coach who comes off a sparkling 44-8 Rose Bowl win one year ago and whose club marked up a 9-1 record this season, Mr. James Owens appeared unduly concerned when he led his Washington Huskies into their Long Beach training camp Saturday afternoon.

"You don't seem as relaxed today as you did last year at this time," snapped out one zealous Fourth Estater. 'Are you more worried over Minnesota than you were over Wisconsin?"

"I'm worried over every team I play," fired back the former Oklahoma All-American, "Maybe I've got a few reasons to be especially worried over this tough outfit from Minnesota, too." In an attempt to pick out the troubled molecules in Owens' brain, let's enumerate a few problems that surely must be keeping the dedicated Husky coach from securing eight hours' sleep daily:

1. Washington hasn't been exactly a blazing ball of fire against Minnesota football teams in the past quarter-century. (The Huskies have beaten Minnesota only five times in 14 meetings, the Gophers winning seven straight during one stretch.)

HOLLINGWORTH

2. The Huskies squeaked past three 1960 foes by the bare margin of one point and downed UCLA by just two digits. Washington's only convincing triumphs during the season were over COP. Idaho, Stanford and Cal, none of which graced the top 20 roster this year (or even the top 60, for that matter).

3. Washington might have been infected with that common, but dreaded, disease konwn as Senioritis. (Owens has 20 of his top 22 players back from last season and sometimes-as the Honorable John McKay might attesteven penicillin won't cure that ailment!)
Whatever his reasons, Owens hasn't invaded our shores to spend the Yule holidays in festive fashion. Already he has (I) cancelled a welcoming party set for Saturday night by the Century Club and (2) let it be known that his solitary local engagement will be a luncheon dis-

Additionally, he hastily scheduled a practice today for his travelers because Disneyland and Camera Day are on the prescribed Tournament of Roses Monday docket.

This may be the season to be jolly, but the calendar won't mean much to the Owens troupe until a late hour on Jan, 2. At that time, I've a hunch they'll roll up Disneyland, Marineland, Knott's Berry Farm, Christmas and New Year's Eve into one beautifully packaged binge!

TOM FEARS, the walking 10-gallon hat ad, admitted he had a sinking feeling in his tummy prior to Saturday's Ram-Packer engagement.

"If that guy Boyd Dowler beats us," The Hat snorted, "I'll go on a liquid diet for a week . . . and I don't mean with pop or mineral water, either."

Fears' queasiness was understandable. The Hat claims modestly he was responsible for the making of Boyd Dowler, Green Bay's efficient flanker back.

When I coached the Green Bay pass receivers last scason," explained Tommy, "I was told the only way to handle Dowler was with a big stick. His dad was a high school coach and Boyd was a know-it-all.

"First day I met Dowler, I laid it on the line, telling him to shape up or get-the-hell out of camp. From that point, I never had a bit of trouble with Dowler. He was the most co-operative and responsive kid I've ever seen. I taught him every trick I knew and he learned them all

"He's so good this year, I feel like a traitor."

With that, Mr. Fears strode off, all 10 gallons of humility to the core,

IF THE OTHER NFL ENTRIES cooperate like the Rams in staffing the Minnesota Vikings, you can expect Bert Rose's new club to make the Dallas Cowboys look like world champions. The Rams, listing an injury roster that might favor comparably with our casualties on Iwo Jima, added two athletes during the past week. One was guard Angelo Brovelli from the Eagle Rock A. C., the other was fullback Chuck Longo from the Montebello Rhinos.

Five'll get you 10 that Brovelli and Longo wind up on the "talent" list offered to the Vikings.

Don't be harsh on Elroy Hirsch and Bob Waterfield,

ERDELATZ FUTURE IN DOUBT

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) Coach Eddie Erdelatz, who still has a season left to go in his contract with the Oakland Raiders, said Saturday that he did not know what his plans were.

"I don't know what I am going to do," declared Erdelatz amid a sea of reports that he may leave the Raiders to coach either at the University of Southern California or the New York Giants, Erdelatz is said to be seeking the Raiders' general manager post to go sition and will leave if he does not get it.

Looks Like Long Season for Angels

·We have noted in the past three days that fans are surprisingly impressed with the roster selected by the new Los Angeles Angels for the forthcoming American League race.

I wish I could whip up as much enthusiasm about their chances . . . but I have to admit I'm keenly disappointed that the American League did not see fit to stock the new clubs a bit better. Oh, there are some colorful names on the roster all right . . . Ted Kluszewski, Eddie Yost, Bob Cerv, Red Schoendienst, Ned Garver and yes, even Steve Once upon a time most of them rated among baseball's very finest. Now, for the most part, they are in the twilight of their major league careers which are being prolonged only because of the vital need for playing talent created by expansion.

The more you study the roster, one shudders at the prospect of what's go-Only one pitcher won the majors, and there isn't a single .300 hitter in the lot. The top two "power" men are Cerv and Yost. Both belted 14 home runs last season, but Cerv batted only ,253 and Yost .260. The once mighty "Klu" didn't hit a single homer in his few appearances for the White Sox . . and don't expect too much from Bilko. He's never been able to hit major league pitching and there's no reason to suspect he'll start at this late stage-even in Wrigley

NED GARVER

Not Getting Younger

BRIGHTEST PERIOD FOR THE Angels should be the first six weeks to two months while the veterans are still fresh and rival clubs have not yet compiled a complete "book" on the younger players.

The last part of the season, we are sorry to say, fig-ures to be pure murder. The club's starting lineup is "second line" to begin with and would be considered little more than "bench strength" with the leading clubs in the Baseball men insist that the climb from the sub-base ment by the new clubs will require five or more years. We hope it will be much quicker than that.

The real key to any measure of success in '61, of course, is the pitching . . . and the Angel mound staff in its present form is woefully thin.

Several weeks ago when the American League first announced plans to expand to 10 teams, we stated that the new teams would be lucky to win 50 games. On the surface that doesn't appear too difficult a goal to reach when a team plays a 162-game schedule.

IN ORDER TO WIN 50 GAMES, all you need is five pitchers who can win 10 games each. That also looks fairly easy. But did you know there wasn't a single 10game-winner among the hurlers offered the new clubs by the other A. L. teams in the recent player-draft?

There aren't many 10-game winners to begin with. There were only 26 in the American League last season and 24 more in the National,

High men chosen in the draft were two Detroit pitchers with seven wins apiece-Dave Sisler (7-5) and Pete Burnside (7-7). The new Washington club took both.

Eli Grba, who won six while losing four for the Yanks, was the only other one in the draft with more than five victories. One of the other hurlers grabbed by L. A. -Tex-Clevenger of Cleveland—won five, but he also was the "losingest" with 11 losses,

The pitchers taken by the Angels won only 22 games in the American League in '60 while losing 35 decisions. The Washington club did a bit better recordwise by choosing pitchers who won 41 while dropping only 32,

A.'s PITCHING STAFF could produce some excellent wins, though. Jerry Casale, only 2-9 for the Red Sox last year, was a 13-game winner in 1959. Grba has great promise, and Garver and Duke Maas still have a few wins left in their aging arms.

But everyone in baseball will be astounded, to say the least, if this pitching staff as it now stands isn't royally worked over . . . especially in the last half of the Summing it up, the defense will be fair, while the pitching and hitting will be very spoity.

Fred Hancy and Bill Rigney may be able to improve the situation by the time the season opens . . . but at best it looks like an extremely long year.

However, we sincerely hope the Angels can make a bigger "splash" than it looks at present.

Bob Kelley Says-

Ole Kel Now 'Most Popular'

Coming of the Angels has stepped up the number of phone calls in my office. I am regarded as a "confidential source" by many of the area's baseball

Since each paper now has two scribes covering baseball, one for the Angels and one for the Dodgers, competition has reared its ugly head.

Thursday, one writer declared the Angels and Dodgers

BOR KELLEY 'Confidentially . . .' were about to close a deal that would exchange Bob Cerv for Junior Gilliam and Bob Lillis.

A scribe on a rival sheet called to seethe: "You gave him that story, didn't

"What story?" I protested. "Listen, these guys go through the halls so fast around here, I don't even have time to say 'Hi'—let aione find out about trades."

Later, another called: "I'll never tip off my source, old buddy, but what do you know about a trade sending Eddie Yost to Washington?"

"Haven't heard a thing. I suppose there might be something to it. After all, fore the draft as saying they wanted Yost badly. You could read that in the papers.' "What do the Angels want for Yost?" he persisted.

"HOW DO I KNOW WHAT THEY want for Yost? I don't even know if Yost is on the trading line; I don't even know if Washington has asked for him."

"OK," the scribe pouted, "The next time I feel like writing something nice about one of your football broadcasts---I won't.'

He hung up.

Other scribes have used the sneaky, indirect approach, like the one who called Friday.

"Rams pretty banged up for the Packers, huh?" "Boy, I'll say,'

"Do you give them any chance?"

"Oh, sure, I give the Rams a chance."

"By the way, you know anything about the Angels trying to get Snider and Hodges?"

"No, I don't know anything about the Angels trying to get Snider and Hodges, But I do know the Angels are going to train in Palm Springs."

THIS CAUSED HIM TO BRIGHTEN. "Are you sure?

Will I have it exclusive?' "I doubt it. The story just came over the news wires."

Again, I heard the click in my ear. I think I've seen Bob Reynolds twice in the last three weeks. We had a sandwich together the other day. Only inside dope I got was his admission: "Am I bushed!" But try to tell that to your sportswriting pals.

They figure every time Fred Haney and Bill Rigney talk trade in their offices next door, Haney holds things up by saying: "Better tell Kelley to run right over; I want to get his opinion on this."

No telling how many friends I'll lose before they wise up to the fact that I'm not quite the source they think I

As impressive as was Vandy's Flash in recording his second stakes win of the meeting (he won the Clabbertown G. Stakes four weeks ago) he had to share the plaudits of the crowd with jockey Don Allison. The young reinsman became the third rider in $4.60 in the show payoffs. Los Alamitos history to Jockey Terry Armstrong ride four winners in one day, thereby duplicating jockey Curt Perner's quadruple recorded here two weeks ago.

Allison, leading rider at the meeting with 22 winners, clicked with Threeders in the second race to close out a .$291.40 daily double, then got home with the favored Dim Bar in the third race at $5.00, won the fifth with Peaches Hazer for a $5.60 return, and survived an inquiry in the seventh race aboard San Rojo to post a $9.80 win mutuel.

The victory in the Autumn Championship by Vandy's Flash couldn't have been more opportune, as the veteran runner is in the thick of the national battle for "horse of the year" laurels. The fact that Vandy's Flash, by winning Saturday's feature, is now the first horse to win the Take Slim Lead championship at both a Los Alamitos fall and spring meeting should stand him in good stead when seasonal titles are

Romance With an Angle

Charles Cox, one of the Southern California Tuna Field. Game time is 1:30 p.m., Club's most persistent big-game anglers, hit the jack-15 minutes earlier than usual. pot in three recent tournaments at Acapulco, took time for the league title last week out for a romance with Myrtle Luckett, famed Long by edging the L. A. Angels, Beach woman angler, became engaged, and today they 4-2. With two games remainare honeymooning somewhere in Southern California They were married Saturday at the Mission Inn in Cox took part in (1) the Sailfish and Tarpon Club o Mexico tournament, in which he placed third; (2) the Texa Game Fish Club event, in which he took another third-plac trophy, and (3) the men's one-day tournament of the International Women's Fishing Association, which he won.

Myrtle, a member of the IWFA, failed to place in the tournament, but she made a hig hit with Cox and a whielwind courtship developed. Incidentally, IWFA has as its motto, "I Will Fish Always," which is well for Myrtle because it will take that kind of determination to keep up with the sailfish and marlin exploits of Charlie.

Charlie said that the first tournament, that of the STCM, Rockets for the balance of the produced the most fish. Thirty-five men fished three days season. Seyfried wants to and caught 337 sailfish and one black marlin. Most of the take a rest before reporting fish were released. The IWFA had its own three-day tour- to the Detroit Tigers for nament and allowed an extra day for the men.

THE NEXT TIME YOU WANT to scream nasty words at brilliant reliever, will start the Department of Fish and Game about what it should or for the Rockets. Bob Clear should not do, think of a man named Ray Azbill, a DF&G will be in the bullpen. The warden in the Southern California area.

Azbill is a man of great perseverance. He also is a darned good detective.

One night in November Ray was driving past an alfalfa field 30 miles north of Blythe. He saw a vehicle roaring through the alfalfa. A spotlight was swinging Dodgers Set back and forth. Then he heard a shot.

Blocking the only exit road out of the field, he apprehended Ernest Chosser, a Los Angeles hunter, when Chesser 31 Spring tried to drive out with a 175-pound buck on his pickup truck. Azbill took him to a sheriff's substation for booking, then returned to the field and started tracking the other culprit, Jack Parsley, also of Los Angeles.

Parsley's tracks were not too hard to follow because of nounced a 31-game spring E recent rain, but Ray had to walk five miles until he training schedule, including a reached a house trailer where the two men had camped.

THE SEQUEL OCCURRED recently when Palo Verde District Court Judge Elliot N. Yearsley fined the two men $1,200 for (1) taking deer with artificial lights, (2) taking der of their appearance, they deer at night, (3) attempting to take deer without deer tag, are A's, Braves, Yankees, (4) failure to tag deer, (5) failure to show deer on demand, Minneapolis Twins, Senators, and (6) causing damage to real property. The property damage was to the alfalfa field, which was torn up by the defendants' pickup truck.

The judge in this particular case is to be congratulated for "throwing the book" at the two illegal hunters. Still, the law doesn't go far enough. It should provide for the seizure of their guns and a long-term suspension of hunting licenses.

And can you ever blame the land owner whose alfalfa field was almost ruined for turning down any hunters who final week end against the ask-permission to shoot there legally? ask permission to shoot there legally?

Also, those of you who watch the clock should give more than a passing thought to Ray Azill, who wasn't wor-rying about time and a half for overtime or a night dif-ers, will report at Vero Beach ferential. INSURANCE MEN are going to love me for this story, and they may use it for whatever it's worth. There have been several instances this year where such policies have paid off, but the grand slam of all went to seven Muskego Lake, Wis., children after their father was killed in an accident. Their mother had died in early November.

Three weeks after the mother's death, Leonard Courier, the widower, went hunting. He took out a 10-day policy Aprauch as the one mentioned above. AL May Take Initiative, Expand to 12 Clubs in '63

NEW YORK (A) - Now that they have dipped their toes in the muddy waters of expansion, the major leagues are expected to keep wading deeper and deeper until they accomplish their aim to three eight-team majors by 1964. Already assured of 10 teams next season, one year before the National League follows suit, the American League may again take the initiative by. widening its operations to 12 teams in 1963.

The biggest obstacle is not to find suitable cities, as is generally believed, but to find enough players of big league caliber to stock the new franchises.

BASED ON the example set by the American players last week when it sold 56 players to Washington and Los Angeles, its two newest members, a total of 168 more expendables would have to be unearthed to round out three leagues of eight teams each. Obviously, this cannot be done in a short space of time.

Despite this glaring drawback, a good many cities from all parts of the country are ready, and willing to stake their claim for a major league franchise. Oakland, Dallas and Buffalo are among those which have been especially aggressive in their efforts to follow Houston and Minneapolis-St. Paul into the big leagues.

From a well-informed source comes the information that the National League has done already the spadework to incorporate Buffalo and Dallas-Ft, Worth into its structure at no later date than 1964. It is conceivable, the NL might move up its plans a year if the American should expand to 12 teams in 1962 or 1963.

THE NATIONAL, of course, will operate with 10 teams in 1962, with the ad-

Oakland, which has been with out professional ball since the invasion of the Pacific Coast League territory, in 1958, is understood to be preparing for big time baseball. A plan construct a suitable stadium is said to be on its agenda.

Other cities which appear as prospective major league candidates, from the standpoint of population, industry, spirit, and desire, include Toronto, Can., Seattle and Denver.

At the recent major league meetings in St. Louis, the majors adopted an amendment to rule 1-C, governing the addition of new clubs.

At the player allotment meeting in Boston last week, at which the two new AL clubs spent $41/2 million dollars for ball players, league president Joe Cronin indicated his circuit was planning on a 12-club league in the near future. "Our expansion to 10 teams next year is only the beginning," he said. "This is only a plateau. I think there is further expansion ahead and these two new teams are just a beginning in the American League

"I build all kinds, but I live in a Medallion home"

"Because I'm a builder, I was most particular about my own home. Consequently, we built it to Medallion home standards.

"That was three years ago. Today, my wife wouldn't have any other kind of cooking facilities except electric. Certainly it's cleaner; and the heat is positive, dependable, uniform.

"From a builder's standpoint, Medallion standards for wiring and lighting are what every well-built home should have. For us, as well as home buyers everywhere, I believe, the Medallion is a mark of quality and prestige. I'm proud to have the Medallion Award on homes in my 'Montecillo' project in Rolling Hills Estates on the Palos Verdes Peninsula, and on my 'Merit Homes' development in Gardena."

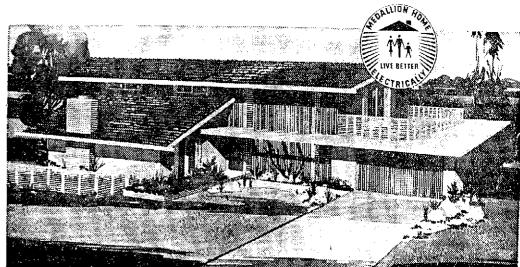

Take a tip from builder George Chacksfield, an expert in his field. Choose the home with the Medallion Award.

Only one new home in five qualifies for the Medallion-an award which assures you:

1. All-electric kitchen, equipped with major electric appliances, including flameless range and oven. 2. Housepower wiring for modern electric living,

3. Light for Living - abundant light designed for comfort, safety and beauty. The Gold Medallion Award includes all these Medallion features and more. For total electric living, the Gold Medallion adds: 4. Flameless electric space and water heating.

Book Tells Police How to Deal With Strange Situations

LOS ANGELES (A)-You're; brakes. With folded arms she rested. a cop on the beat. A woman sits, adamant, defiant, uncomcomplains that a man with municative.

Sent him out to the car to drunken support in the front "A practical solution," the sunbaths. What do you do? unlocked and the woman ar-drunk in their home and she the house . . .

Two ex-cop professors at the University of Southern California advise:

"It may be suggested to the woman that perhaps she is in violation of the laws relating to indecent exposure .. (and) that a Bikini would be appropriate. The use of binoculars would not seem to stamp the man as being a peeping tom." Profs. John P. Kenney and John B. Williams have suggested the proper procedure for perplexed policemen in this and some 400 other situations in a forthcoming book, "Police Operations."

The authors teach police science classes - attended mostly by policemen - in USC's School of Public Administration. Kenney, 40, is a former police officer in Berkeley, Williams, 42, a retired officer of the Los Angeles Police Department, is acting police chief of May-

The 400 commonest predicaments for men in blue have been culled by the authors from 3,000 practical police problems. They're offered, with answers, as guides for patrol officers, detectives and juvenile, vice and traffic

THE PROFESSORS write: "It has been our observation that most police departments have not provided their personnel with adequate directives, orders and operational information with which to meet their respective day-today problems."

For instance: A woman complains that her boy friend borrowed her car a week ago and she hasn't seen him since. She asks: Can she make a stolen car report

"If there is a conclusion that intent to steal has been shown," the professor counsel, "a stolen car report for grand theft auto would seem appropriate."

A HUSBAND and wife agree to disagree and live separately. But when he returns to get his clothes the wife won't even let him into the house.

"Generally the husband has as much right to enter the premises as the wife has unless there is a court order to the contrary," say Kenney and Williams.

"In this situation the officer should warn both parties that he is there merely to reserve the peace and not to settle a civil dispute.

"If there is a fight or disturbance in the presence of the officer, the one or ones who participate should be arrested for disturbing the peace."

AN OFFICER answers a "female mental case" call. He finds a woman who com-plains, "people are shooting rays at me through the wall. He's advised to seek relatives or friends to take care of her, but-

"In any event the officer cannot make an arrest because a per in is believed to be psychopathic. The law provides that the person must be so mentally disturbed as to be likely to cause injury to himself or others before an arrest can be made."

A vice officer, attempting to make a gambling arrest, l ks in the door of the wrong apartment.

The red-faced bungler is advised to locate the correct room, make his arrest, then seek out the owner or tenant of the room with the shattered door and explain the circumstances of the mistake. "The office of the city attorney could be contacted for advice."

A TRAFFIC COP halts a woman speeder and is about to give her a ticket. But she has rolled up the windows, locked the doors and set the pomp and pageantry will come to life Dec. 23, when the Los Angeles Bureau of Music presents the Los Angeles premiere performance of the masterwork "The Play of Daniel," at Royce Hall on UCLA campus

The Daniel drama was created by students of the Cathedral of Beauvais, France, near the year 1150. It was intended to be performed during the Christmas season in observance of the birth of Christ, which is un- LONELY SENTINEL usual in this context, since Daniel is a book of the Old Testament, However, Daniel prophesies the coming of the Virgin and the Christ Child.

THE "PLAY of Daniel" has aroused international acclaim and has met with success in New York and at many of the major festivals of Europe. Carlton Martin will conduct the performance which will have more than 100 performers and will feature the Los Angeles Symphonic Chorus, more than a dozen well-known local soloists, a ballet of 20, and ancient musical instruments which are replica of those used in the middle ages.

Sponsored by Los Angeles Department of Municipal Art in cooperation with the Committee on Fine Arts Production at UCLA, the program is scheduled to begin at 8:30 p.m. There will be no charge for admission and tickets or reservations will not be re-ably the heaviest discouragement for the opera people who would like all operas to be sung in English to American audiences is the seeming inability of opera singers to deal understandingly with that language. The newest case in point is the Metropolitan Opera's new production of Gluck's "Alcestis." The text had been translated into English all right, but the audience could only be occasionally aware of it. The chorus converted our mother tongue into streams of linguistic mud.

The principals did somewhat better, especially Nicolai Gedda, for whom English is not a mother tongue. This tenor's English enunciation was a phenomenon of beauty in itself. Every syllable was projected clearly and had meaningful impact on the listening ear.

BUT Eileen Farrell's English enunciation was an inand-out affair, and English is her mother tongue. The other principals, whose roles were comparatively minor yet essential for understanding, hardly seemed intent on making things clear.

It was more a pity because "Alcestis" is a standstill opera, long on sentiment and morality but short on action. Musically it was beautifully sung. Miss Farrell was making a belated debut at the Met, having won innumerable hearts with her recital singing, and proved again that hers is one of the arresting dramatic soprano voices of our

THIS is a heavy discouragement of opera in English because if English language audiences can't understand operatic English, they're not going to rise up and demand that operas be sung in English. On the other hand, if there is no such demand. there can be no pressure on singers to learn to sing English understandably.

The fact is, operatic au diences don't seem to care much. The Met polled its audiences last season and discovered a majority wanted operas sung in their original longues. One might say Met audiences are very special audiences which have very

Who Gets Blamed?

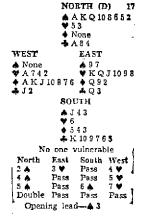

Today's hand was sent to me by an anonymous reader who said, "Please assess the fault on this disaster hand."

As anyone can see, it was quite a disaster for North and South. North would have made his six spades and if South had opened a diamond East could have been set four tricks at his seven heart bid. But once South opened a spade East was able to spread his hand and claim the grand slam,

I am going to blame North a little for his opening two bid with only 13 high card points, but the two bid is not what caused his downfall. I am not going to criticize South at all. His partner had opened with a two bid and South had no reason to suspect the danger.

THEN, who was at fault? I have to blame West, West heard the two-spade opening and his partner's three-heart overcall and it required no great vision on his part to see that his partner should have a good play for seven hearts, provided a spade was opened.

West saw this, but what did he do? He simply raised to four hearts his first turn and later on simply bid the minimum number of hearts necessary until, when he finally bid seven, it looked just as if West was taking a deliberate sacrifice.

To give you an illustration, his wife baked a chucolate cream pie for him during the war; covered 250 miles to deliver it in person, then watched him eat the WHOLE

A native of Long Beach, Orris was graduated from Poly High, attended Junior College before entering UC at Berkeley. He graduated with three full majors, business administration, foreigntrade and banking and finance. He pledged Delta Phi Epsilon, a national foreign trade fraternity.

OF THE three degrees, he favored foreign trade, and spent two years with Libby, McNeill & Libby's San Francisco office in their foreign trade department,

San Francisco probably would have claimed him longer had the summons from home and the hardware business not been so great, and the ties so strong.

His grandfather, Henry L. Orris, first started the business in 1910 under the name of the American Ave. Hardware Co. His dad, Roy W. Orris, followed as its manager until 1950 when, upon his retirement, after 40 years of service, Wade took over. They now have 15 stores.

World War II changed his address to the Island of Attu in the Aleutians. He spent five years there with the infantry.

OUR COVER

Probably from the time the first horses entered into mankind's scheme of living there have been teenaged girls whose deep desire was to have an equine pet. Then came Henry Ford and contemporaries to dim the future of dear old Dobbin. However, today's statistics show that horses are fast gaining new favor as pets and playmates, as parade and show attractions and on the race track, It's clear that automobiles, jet planes, atomic submarines and space ships will never eliminate the horse, who's easy to keep as a back-yard pet-where zoning laws permit-and who will mow the lawn, albeit a bit raggedly. But what other kind of mower will transport his mistress miles away and back on an exploring trip?

NEXT WEEK

Joy reigns over the Christmas season and all Christendom celebrates the anniversary of the Great Event of the Manger. The birth of the Christ Child sparked a light destined to shine around the world and bring new understanding to the hearts of man. Christmas is, of course, for children. But, although its greatest significance is reserved for mankind, "Christmas Is for Animals, Too." See next Sunday's Southland Magazine.

EAR MISS RULE: Have you genealogy on ABER-CROMBIE? - Mrs. C. A., Compton; B. A., Long Beach.

C. A., B. A.; ABERCROM-BIE, a famous Scotch name, is from a geographical phrase, Aber-Crom, meaning "at the crooked river-mouth." The Abercrombies were from Banffshire, northeast Scotland, where their manorial estate was at Birkenbog. A town named after them is in Fifeshire. Their coat-of-arms has a red chevron between three blue boar heads, symbolic of stalwartness. The Abercrombie motto "Vive ut vivas" interprets as "Live, that you may have life." James Abercrombie of this clan was a noted British general who led the expedition against Fort Ticonderoga in the Revolutionary War.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like data on NIEDERHAUS-ER and NEIDERHISER — F.C., Lynwood; V.R., Bellflower.

F.C., V.R.: NIEDERHAUS-ER is a German surname de-scriptive of "lower house-owner." NEIDERHISER is a Dutch spelling variation of the same surname, originally Neiderhuyser. These names were used by ancestors to distinguish their homes from others in their native villages. No other information is available on these families.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please inform us on CASSINO.— F.C., Long Beach, F.C.: CASSINO, an Italian name, descended from a remote forebear in the early Middle Ages who owned a "Cassino" or "little house." Cassino is also traced to ancestors who took their native town-name, Monte Cassino, as their own cognomen. No coat-of-arms is available for this lineage.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give brief genealogy on SLAUGHTER.—R.S., Lakewood; I.G., Long Beach.

R.S., I.G.: SLAUGHTER was taken from a village by that name in Gloucestershire, England. The original town-name, "Slo-tre" meant "Sloe-tree," memorializing a varitree," memorializing a variety of plum called a "sloe." is also known that some Slaughter lineages descended from a 13th century hutcher or "Slaughtere." Among remote ancestors was Ballivus de Sloghtre of Gloucester in 1273. The family coal-of-arms has a blue St. Andrew's cross on a silver shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Have you the origin of BJORK and BJORKLAND?-Mrs. B., Mrs. J.R., Long Beach; J.L.R., Compton.

B., J.R., J.L.R.: BJORK and BJORKLAND are Scandinavian surnames from Sweden and Norway. They decipher as farm-geographical phrases, Bjork meant "birch tree," in allusion to a farmstead landmarked by such a tree. BJORKLAND refers to "land covered with birches." No cuat-of-arms is registered for either name.

DEAR MISS RULE: Have you data on NICHOLAS and NICOLS?-B.W., Fullerton;

M.N., Long Beach.
B.W., M.N.: NICHOLS and NICOLS are taken from the English surname Nicholson (Son of Nicholas). The ancient Greek given name Nicholas translates as "vic-torious warrior." The shields of these families are similar, with two ermine bars crossing a blue shield. Nichols descendants were among 17th century founding settlers of South Reading, Mass. Among other Massachusetts records, I note John Nicels, born in 1640 and William Nichols, born in 1599.

DEAR MISS RULE: Can you inform me on HAG-THROP?—M.H., Long Beach.

M.H.: HAGTHROP is a rare English surname on which genealogists have discovered scant information. No data exists on it except that it was formed from "Hag," a baptismal name describing "handy and skillfui," coupled with "Throp," formerly "thorp," meaning "town," "Hag's Town" has been used as the family name for over seven centuries

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning, and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

Strange Things Do Happen!

By Paul Jones

SO THE BIG NEWS of the year was the presidential election?

Or maybe the space race? Or Cuba? Or the U. N. fracas?

Well, not necessarily,

At least not to Walter Klauser. Nor to Robert Coon. Nor to Richard Siewertsen. Nor to Marie Rarrick or Richard Taylor.

For please be informed, friends, that-

Klauser was run down by a bear on a motorcycle.

Coon found a 60-foot boxcar in his basement.

Siewertsen was run over by a house

Marie Rarrick's car was smacked by a moving tree.

And Taylor reached up and caught a baby flying through space as neatly as Mickey Mantle would reach up and catch a fly ball.

See now why the election and those other top stories had to share the headlines?

AND THE ODDITIES listed above were only a few of the weird and wacky wonders uncovered by the National Safety Council in its annual roundup of accidental absurdities.

The dizzy details:

The Clase of the Bumptious Bear occurred in Miami Beach, Fla., where a big furry showoff was grandly riding a motorcycle around a ring in the Ringling Bros., Barnum & Bailey Circus. Giddy with pride, he lost control, vecred into trainer Walter Klauser, sent him to the hospital with leg injuries. The bungling bruin barely managed to retain his driver's license.

It may be possible that someone It may be possible that someone reading this has never gone to his place of business in the morning and found a nice big 60-foot boxcar reposing in the basement. For him, Robert Coon, of Mason, Mich., has this tip: "You'll be surprised!" The boxcar that greeted Coon was one of 22 derailed in the heart of Mason. The other 21 were less presumptions. The other 21 were less presumptuous.

Practically the last thing in the world Richard Siewertsen, of Detroit, had planned to do one day last June was to he run over by a house. But he was. Riding atop the house as it was being moved down the street. Dick hopped off, tried to jump back on, missed—and the house ran over his foot. He is now a great believer in home safety.

WHEN MARIE RARRICK reported dutifully to Toledo, Ohio, police that a tree had swerved around a corner and rammed her car, the officers were understandably skeptical until she explained that the tree was on a city truck. Then they got down to the roots of the case.

As Richard Taylor strolled back tohis office from lunch in Seattle one day last April, he heard a baby cry and looked up to see 16-month-old Richard Hudson come sailing out of a third-story window. Taylor did what came naturally. He dashed over and caught the child just before the plunging boy hit the pavement. Young Ricky was unharmed. shook up. Taylor was

Every eager baton twirler tries to develop a specialty in his routine that will make him stand out. Teenager Keith Hodges did just that during a parade in Santa Barbara, Calif., when his glistening baton, flipped exultantly high in the air, encountered a wind gust, took off and conked the Hon. Edmund G. Brown, governor of the sovereign state of California, smack on the head. Keith felt worse than the

AS AN EMPLOYE of an automobile concern, Jerry McMahon, of San Francisco, naturally likes to hear his motor purr when he steps on the starter. But when it not only purred, but yowled, he turned it off, jumped from the car and raised the hood. An indignant and battered cat confronted him. She had crawled up under the hood to keep warm. She did.

After many years and half a million miles of accident-free driving, salesman Reed E. Very, of Florissant, Mo., finally rammed his company car into the rear of another vehicle. was his own car, driven by his wife, who had stopped suddenly at an intersection. Both husband and wife were Very, Very embarrassed.

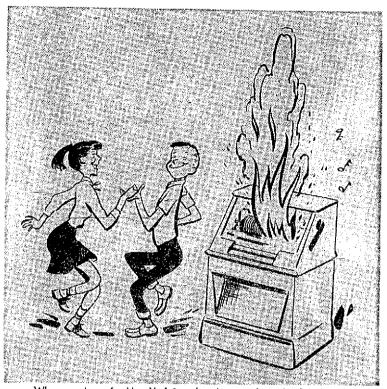

Safety people are always warning drivers not to stop for a nip. But they couldn't blame motorist Don Ethridge, of Salem, Ore., when he did. Driving through Rawlins, Wyo., Ethridge prudently thrust out his arm to indicate a stop. A big dog hounded alongside eyed Mr. Ethridge's dan-gling fingers and gave him a good nip -right on the hand.

IN SEPTEMBER last year Tony Atencio, of Englewood, Colo., broke his jaw playing high school football, In December he broke it again playing basketball. In May he broke it again playing baschall. Anyone for Patrolman Francis P. Sheehan, of the Lockport, N. Y., police force, slipped on a pencil at the head of the stairs, cascaded all the way down, and was taken to the Lockport Me-morial Hospital with back injuries. The pencil that threw him was a souvenir-from the Lockport Memorial Hospital.

In the Harbor Inn restaurant in New York City a patron put a nickel in the juke box to hear "There'll Be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight."

When a patron of a New York inn played a recording of "There'll Be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight," there was, The juke box caught fire,

It's OK for an automobile motor to purr, but when it youls . . . well, a San Francisco auto firm employe had it happen. A cat was under hood.

Traffic antics of human beings can be zany enough, but a man in Flormethods of combating aging were presented at the 5th International Gerontological Congress. As science works to help man increase his physical life span, so must man cooperate with science and find ways to activate his mental longevity.

By Mary Barry

The most successful pattern for longevity is traced during the earlier years of life, not after retirement begins. The person who has gathered and developed many varied interests as time goes by, will be the person who will be best fortified for the later, less active years.

In these later years persons sometimes experience a feeling of being "useless" or "un-needed" after their families are grown, and they are retired from active business. However, there are many ways to insure oneself against this possible predicament.

Some of today's happiest senior citizens are those who are engaged in full or part-time gainful employment. Even as far back as Benjamin Franklin's time he had the foresight to advise women to learn some employable skill that they might fall back on if the need be. That skill can be developed by capitalizing on one's best talent, or by studying a subject which is of especial interest as was in the case of localite Mrs. George McCormick. Her husband being in real estate, she was especially interested in this field so she took a course, passed the real estate salesman's examination, and became a licensed property salesman.

Today's happiest senior citizens have full or part-time employment

Design for Longevity

"It opened a whole new life for me," says Mrs. McCormick. "Now I'm kept comfortably busy between selling real estate and baby-sitting for my seven grandchildren."

One can realize added income after retirement by putting a hobby to work. Wayne "Tex" Maupin chose just this type of hobby when he became interested in tropical fish. A retired naval officer, "Tex" started with just a small home aquarium. He soon became so engrossed with his new interest that he added more aquariums, and began breeding the fish. Soon the aquariums outgrew his home so he rented a small business building to house the breeding tanks. At the same time, he read and studied all he could find on the subject. When the storeroom behind his "hatchery" was vacated, he rented it and went into the retail tropical fish husiness.

"The whole venture has just mushroomed," relates Mrs. Maupin. "Tex expanded further and added a marine room with salt water fish, and he also has gone into the servicing end of the business and takes care of many of the big tanks in commercial establishments."

A NATURE INTEREST — "the greatest free show on earth"—can also turn into a lucrative pastime. This happened in the case of a local oil company executive who started raising orchids just for fun and relaxation and ended up an orchid business passing the million dollars a year mark.

Another way to keep busy and to assure that feeling of being "needed" in later life is to learn earlier the gratification that comes from volunteering for charity work. The Community Volunteer Office, an agency of the Community Chest, is just one of a multitude of organizations that always needs people for many different types of service. When a local resident volunteered at the office she was given the job of being a "friendly visitor" to the shut-ins in a rest home. When she realized how much her new-made friends in the rest home looked forward to her next visit, she realized she would always be "needed" to help those less fortunate than herself.

Besides the feeling of being "needed," it is necessary for man to find activities, that will fulfill his desire for creativeness, prestige, and achievement in order to be happy, say psychologists. This is even more necessary for those in their later years, and it has been estimated that by 1975 in this country the number of people past 65 years of age will climb to the 20 million figure.

AN EXCELLENT way to fulfill the need for creativeness has been found to be working with one's hands. Longtime city resident T. S. Waller finds a sense of fulfillment when he is creating the sculptured pieces that add so much charm to his home and garden.

"The life masks I make of my friends has also been an interest I have enjoyed for more than 25 years," he says.

Using one's hands by participating in the cultural enjoyments early

Using one's hands by participating in the cultural enjoyments early in life is always a gilt-edged investment for the later years. Wilbur F. Broderick, art teacher, says:

"In my experience in 15 years of leaching adults art I have found that anyone who really has the desire to paint can be taught."

That doesn't mean that everyone will turn out to be a Grandma Moses, but learning to paint makes one more alert to all the color and beauty around him, and gives him a better knowledge and keener appreciation of the work of the masters.

'Lucy' Moves In on Broadway

By Rufus Blair

stage play, "Wildcat," has gone off like a bombshell, it is calculated that television will see precious little of its favorite mistress for the next five years,

"Wildcat," a dramatic musical produced and directed by Michael Kidd, presents Miss Ball as a rough-andtumble denizen of the early boom years in the old fields.

The flame-haired actress, whose "I Love Lucy" shows are destined to become a television legend, is enthralled over prospects of a long stay on Broadway.

"IF IT'S A runaway hit, as everyone predicts," she ruminates, "I am committed to appear in the show for at least 18 months.

"But it will be longer than that before I can do more than an occasional spectacular on television. You see, after 18 months of 'Wildcat,' I want to devote another three years at least to Broadway.

"Soon as I leave this play, I immediately will seek roles in others, and so on, for the next five years. Maybe I'll have time and leisure for two full hour shows every year on television, but that will be about all."

MISS BALL NOW has been off the tiny living room screen for more than six months, with the exception of repeat programs. During that period she made her first motion picture in five years, "The Facts of Life," in which she is co-starred and teamed again with Bob Hope. The picture, produced, directed and written by veteran film-makers Norman Panama and Melvin Frank, will be released at Christmas time by United Artists. A romantic-comedy with dramatic overtones, it takes an adult and witty look at the possibilities of extramarital relationship among the country club set.

Lazy Afternoon

Sunday afternoons on Waikiki beach open up countless diversions besides swimming, surfing and outrigger-canoeing.

For example, you might try stretching out on green grass as Honolulu's Kapiolani park and listening to the Royal Hawaiian band.

When you do, you'll be enjoying an Island tradition that has survived from the Old Hawaiian kingdom to the present 50th State.

For 89 years the band has delighted Islanders and guests, through the later Kamehameha dynasty, revolution years, the republic and Hawaii's decades as a territory.

Lucille Ball and Bob Hope get involved in a tortid affair in "The Facts of Life," a new comedy-drama.

when the film was finished last August and immediately plunged into rehearsals on "Wildcat" in New York. The play opened recently in Philadelphia and moved to Broadway last week. Reviewers and showmen have appraised it as a "walloping hit" and predict it will enjoy a long, unlimited

"A HIT PLAY is something I've wanted all my life," the veteran star says with all the enthusiasm of an adolescent, "To be starred on Broadway! That's the life for me." And she followed the remark with a characteristic blast of laughter.

Then, seriously, she continued:

"You know, the other mediums — television, movies, summer stock, radio—they're all fun. I've done them all, and enjoyed every one. And why not? Pictures and especially TV have made me economically independent, and I don't quarrel with that.

"I've tried to reach Broadway before, but never hit it off. Nearest I ever got to it was in summer stock about 10 years ago when I starred in 'Dream Girl' up and down the Eastern seaboard. At that, I practically had to stage a Hollywood revolt to do it. That was right after I had done my best movie work as Bob Hope's costar in 'Sorrowful Jones' and 'Fancy Pants'."

HOW ABOUT MORE movies and television in 1965 if the long stretch on Broadway materializes? Miss Ball was asked.

"Oh, I'll be back if they want me, but," she added with finality, "there'll be no more of the 'I Love Lucy' shows. Weren't they wonderful though. I cherish every hour of them. But all that is behind me now.

"I'd like to make more pictures with Bob (Hope). We've always hit it off. 'Sorrowful Jones' was Bob's best picture in past years, and mine, too. And the one we finished recently for Norman Panama and Melvin Frank is cut from the same cloth but with a lot more experience behind all of us."

Home to Fit a Personality

The Dallas Conklin home on the Peninsula is a choice setting for the art treasures the owner displays. Japanese-made bamboo shades cover windows overlooking ocean.

MISS DALLAS CONKLIN. on the upper floor of the duplex at 6311 Seaside Walk, has the sand and the soft rolling surf of the Pacific Ocean for her front yard.

The dwelling, on the Peninsula, is on a 30-foot by 75foot lot—an area architects D. J. Daniel and Palmer Power designed to take full advantage of the natural beauty of the district,

The house has a post and beam construction. Redwood facing gives strong vertical lines. Special care was taken to use materials resistant to salt air: marine paint on the trim, marine hardware, fiherglass screens, and gray plate glass which was used for windows on the front in order to resist glare and heat.

The home has an open plan, reminiscent of many of the homes found in Japan. However, in planning this house, the owner (who spent two years in Japan) hoped to realize the spirit rather than the letter of the Japanese influence. In other words, the home has a contemporary decor accented with Japanese home decorating ideas used to serve a specific purpose.

SLIDING PANELS provide walls which conceal built-in units, storage spaces, and the like. This necessitates a minimum of furniture and gives a feeling of space. Acoustical plaster is used throughout. The floors are Danish cork, Bamboo shades, made to order in Japan, provide a transparent cover for the windows.

Miss Conklin wanted her new home to be a background not only for her own treasured art collection, but for pictures she rents from the Long Beach Museum of Art. Therefore, her entry is a small art gallery. Japanese burlap wallpaper was used on the entire entry wall facing the front door, with a row of paintings displayed.

The living room is simply furnished with couch, chairs, and coffee table placed near the unadorned fireplace. Open fret work was used above the beams which separate the living room from the adjoining room which is a combination guest bedroom-densludy.

In the den-guest bedroom as in the rest of the home, simplicity in furnishing is the motif. Sliding panels conceal built-in units, add to the open feeling of room.

In the den, also, a mini-mum of furniture is used; couch-bed and corner table are in evidence. However, the sliding panels conceal a dressing table, television set, book shelf, and other bedroom-den facilities.

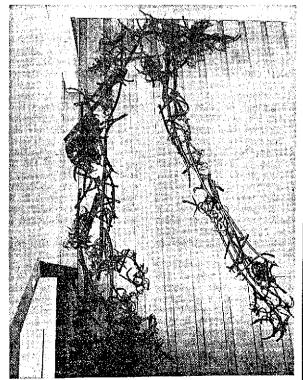

A handsome Japanese screen is in one corner of the dining room. The mahogany dining table is flanked with light-weight Italian chairs. Built-in cupboards provide space for a choice collection of Oriental china.

THE KITCHEN is at once spotless and efficient, with white formica, ample cupboards, and plenty of walkaround space. From the kitchen window there is a view of the ocean and the Long Beach coastline in the distance-a luxurious feature in any Bedroom closets and builtin drawers line one entire wall. A bed, desk, and allpurpose chest are in the main part of the room which has a small annex for the dressing table adjoining the bath. Also in the main bedroom there is a closet which accommodates a small office with all the necessary equipment, Contrasting the cork floors in the rest of the home, the bedroom has soft green carpeting.

The second bathroom in the home is tailored in decor. It is adjacent to the den, and serves as a guest powder room when needed.

Clue to the personality of the owner of the home is the Falkenstein art piece on the outside Wall-near doorbell.

Etegere From France

brought from France about 1870, is sturdy and usable.

By Helen L. Gillum

THIS BEAUTIFUL old piece, correctly called an "etegere with cupboard base," and which is actually a glorified version of the oldtime whatnot stand, is a cherished family heirloom belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Carr of 153 Argonne Ave.

The etegere is understandably dear to Mrs. Carr. It was brought to America from France about 1870 by Mrs. Carr's grandparents. Her mother was just a tiny girl then. Upon the death of her mother in Iowa some years ago, Mrs. Carr had the aged black-walnut piece shipped to her in California.

Although constructed for the life and times of 100 years ago, this imposing floor-to-ceiling Victorian elegancy is still sturdy and pleasingly utilitarian. Its tiers of small, uniform shelves are fitting displays for Mrs. Carr's antique porcelain and cut glass.

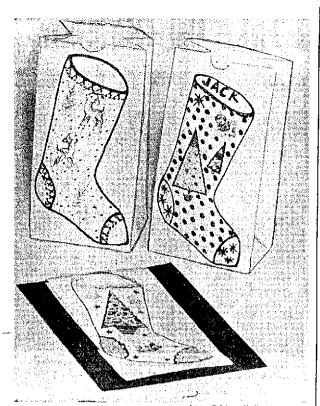

THE SPACIOUS marble top bears a beautiful 6-place caster set and an attractive arrangement of salts, peppers, vases and chinaware. Handy storage space for household linens is provided in the wide drawer beneath the marble top and in the cupboard base.

The tall three-fourths-inch thick mirrors, with the original quicksilver backing on them, reflect today's objects as clearly as they did the knickknacks and gewgaws in a bygone parlor. An unusual feature is the mirror in the door of the cuphoard base, which lends beauty and in-

Sack socks simplify Santa's job. They'll look good on the mantel and children will enjoy decorating them.

Sack Socks for Santa

By Lorena Fleissia

T IS BEING said that the sack is the symbol of America. We know that the sack is a veritable short cut in many areas of service where the present need is to simplify each task.

Whatever will ease the strain of the holiday season with its emphasis on careful preparation of food and selection of gifts, will provide more time for meditation on the good things above those of the material.

Goodness knows, Santa has always had a tough time pushing fat oranges and nuts, apples and tangerines into Sissy's and Sonny's fancy stitched net or felt socks for the expected surprise for Christmas morning.

WHY MAKE IT so hard on Santa? Handsome paper sacks in white and pastel colors are available in most of the stores and are made attractive with the simplest of decorations.

The children may want to decorate their own sack socks with pictures cut from last (Continued on Page 21)

Pine Cones Take On Glamour

By Vera Williams

R. and Mrs. J. H. Me-Granahan, 389 Haines Ave., call themselves "scavengers."

In their travels, or even on walks in their neighborhood they pick up pine cones, eucalyptus buds, seed pods, thistles, weeds.

The list is endiess, and so is the variety of things they do with them.

In their workshops - each has a workshop—overlooking the east end of Colorado Lagoon, they tie and wire and spray this "loot," making candleholders, wreaths, sprays. These are especially popular during the holidays.

TO MAKE candleholders, they cut plywood into the desired shape and size, punch it full of holes.

In the middle they attach a tin can. (A pimiento or mushroom can is just right for a small candle; a tuna fish can is just right for a large candle, says Mrs. McGranahan.)

Then they carefully place the cones, seed pods, weeds on the base, building up in an attractive pattern. They wire or tie the larger objects and glue the smaller ones, Mrs. McGranahan prefers to tie with double crochet thread.

Mrs. J. H. McGranahan holds one of the many decorated candleholders she has made of pine cones, seeds, pods.

Wire is likely to cut the fin-

THEN THE arrangement is sprayed with gold or with natural lacquer.

The procedure is the same with sprays and wreaths.

The McGranahans prefer candles made of beeswax sheets rolled around a sturdy wick. Such candles burn for many hours with a minimum of drip.

They cut pine cones in two for smaller holders. They make "miniature Christmas trees" of large pine cones on a base, with bright beads, gumdrops, birthday candles, and smilar items on the

A Deer and a deer tangled on the highway near Columbus, Ind. One of the parties involved—Donald Deer, of Indianapolis—reported the accident to police and ruefully exhibited his damaged car. Police didn't get the name of the other deer-a big buck which dashed in front of Donald Deer's car-because he fled from the scene of the accident. Oh, dear.

ANTHONY SCARROTT, of Bath, England, is really a bouncing baby boy. The 22month-old youngster tumbled out of his carriage. He bounced up, ambled into a coal chute, fell 11 feet into a cellar. He bounced up again, tottered toward the door, walked through, and plunged into the River Avon. The water wasn't hard enough for him to bounce, so he submitted to rescue by a neighbor. He suffered only minor bruises — and of course bounced right back to health.

Farmer Hubert Sowers, of buth Charleston, W. Va., South Charleston, W. went hunting, tripped and broke his ankle. Meanwhile, back at the farm, Mrs. Sowers whacked a fidgety cow on the flank to make it stand still, broke her hand. They broadcast their misfortune, cast to cast.

In Fort Worth, Tex., A. C. Reid Jr., treated for a bump on the head, explained he had been waiting for an elevator in an office building and had opened the safety door to see if it was coming. It was,

IN RED BLUFF, Calif.,

Janet Thomas was shot by her horse, aided by a porcupine. Janet was riding the horse when the porcupine fell out of a tree. The horse reared. As Janet fell, she dropped her rifle. The horse stepped on it, and Janet was shot in the leg. She now uses the family car.

When 2-year-old Ricky Bivins, of Evansville, Ind., decided to visit his grandmother down the street, he swiped the car keys from the kitchen table, seated himself on the floor of the family car, turned on the ignition and pushed on the accelerator. The car had been left in high gear. bolted straight ahead. For 100 yards it stayed on the right side of the street. veered across the road, sheared off a 20-ft, telephone pole, roared straight ahead for two blocks on the busy street, rammed into a one-story frame house, bounced back, rammed again. Ricky was unhurt, but shaken. So were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Bivins. Item: A few days later Ricky cut himself while trying to shave with a razor with no blade in it. Any suggestions?

THE NEXT TIME you ladies have trouble parking, take solace from the experience of Mrs. Rubic Johnson, of San Francisco. Attempting to park her car in a garage attached to her home, Mrs. J. hit the gas pedal instead of the brake. She crashed through the garage, rammed into the basement, tore out the rear wall, careened across the back yard, knocked down a fence, ruined the car-and gave the neighbors something to talk about

When police of Port Credit. Ont., investigated the highway accident of Harold Hebert, they found him as white as a ghost. His car had gone out of control and hit a culvert, tossing him out. The car trunk burst open. A can of white paint came flying out, and the lid came off. Mr. Herbert got a broken ankle and a real good paint job.

And in Albany, N. Y., John Frain decided to spend a quiet evening at home and avoid the heavy Labor Day holiday traffic. As he sat reading in his second-floor apartment, the floor collapsed. He fell to the first floor, broke a leg. Sumetimes you just can't win!

Sure, there was a national election in 1960, and a lot of other big news.

But honestly, now, don't you think the items you have just read were a little newsy,

Sewing Cabinet Easy to Make

Handy cabinet shown by Mari Blanchard of NBC-TV will hold all of the supplies Mother needs when she sews.

By Steve Ellingson

F YOU want your father to take care of you, that's paternalism. If you want your mother to take care of you, that's maternalism. If you want Uncle Sam to take care of you, that's socialism. If you want your comrades to take care of you, that's communism. But if you want to "do-it-yourself" that's oldtime unadulterated American-

One of the most solid satisfactions of life a generation or two ago, was the degree of self-sufficiency that was enjoyed by our American fam-

No matter whether times

they knew how to get along. Making the best of things, no matter what the conditions, was a valuable educational experience for the children.

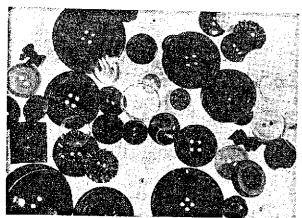

IT APPEARS to me that we can do with a little more of that old-time self-sufficiency here in our fast moving era. That's the reason for the sewing cabinet project pictured on this page with television actress Mari Blanchard of NBC television. You will notice that the cabinet is designed to hold all of the supplies that Mother needs when she sews. There's space for patterns, yarns, fabrics and things of that kind along with a removable tray for threads, needles, pine himbles and so forth. Under the cover you will see how scissors, knitting needles, measuring tape and other miscellaneous items are kept. The cabinet also doubles as a comfortable stool.

Here is a project that will be appreciated by any women members of the family. The cabinet is easy to build with the full-size pattern.

FT.

To obtain the full-size pattern No. 195 for the cabinet send $1 in currency, check or money order payable to Steve Ellingson, Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram Pattern Dept., 15155 Saticoy St., Van Nuys, Calif.

HOW TO Sew On a Button So Securely That It Will Stay Permanently Placed

"THAT BUTTON! Why does it keep popping off?" Probably you sewed it on too tightly to the garment, not allowing for the buttonhole to slip around the sewing.

2. TO PLACE button, lap garment; pass needle through buttonhole and fabric beneath -about an 1/8 inch from buttonhole at end near fabric edge. Push the needle and threads through; take a stitch or two in material to fasten

4. MAKE TWO or three more turns through the holes. Push needle up, between button and fabric. Take pin out pull button up, and smooth threads across top. Wind thread two or three times about the neck of threads, forming a shank, Make a couple of finishing stitches-and you're done!

Lemon-Glazed Turkey

Lemon-glazed turkey brings a different treatment of the traditional bird to the table for Christmas dinner.

By Mildred K. Flanary

THESE ARE the days when the kitchens of the Long Beach area are filled with aroma of everything that's good, and it's time to think about roasting the turkey. And right here we have a suggestion, a lemon glaze for the bird that will be a change.

Green bean imperial salad is different, too. Make it early in the day and refrigerate.

Lemon Glazed Turkey

- 1/4 cup melted butter or
- drippings 4 tablespoons fresh Iemon juice
- 1 tablespoon grated onion
- teaspoon marjoram
- teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper ½ teaspoon paprika

Combine all ingredients. About one hour before turkey i sdone, brush all over with lemon mixture. Continue basting until turkey is finished.

Green Bean Imperial Salad

- I medium onion, sliced thin
 - 2 packages frozen cut green beans, cooked, drained, cooled
- 3 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
- cup salad oil
- l clove garlic, minced (optional)
- tablespoon prepared mustard
- teaspoon salt
- teaspoon pepper pimiento

Thin lemon slices

Add sliced onion to cooked, cooled beans. Mix lemon juice, oil, garlic, mustard, salt and pepper together. Let stand for an hour. Stir dress-ing through beans. Keep in refrigerator until serving time (at least an hour). Decorate with strips of pimiento and lemon slices. Makes 6 servings.

Sack Socks

(Continued from Page 15) year's cards, Ribbon bits, sequins, buttons or felt scraps will make the project interesting. Or they might like to draw or crayon some free-hand designs and letter the name of each sock sack owner. Speedier decorations are possible with the instant drying felt markers which come in all the bright colors.

SACK SOCKS stand solidly on the mantel and look much more tidy than a limp sock hooked on a nail. The sacks are very individual, as much so as the curving tunnel of embroidery and lace stockings of older times that simply would not yield to the solid forms of fruit or the square corners of packages.

Unlike the outmoded sock, sack socks do not have to be 'preserved' year after year to embarrass the grown up youngster, or have to be sentimentally stored away. Sack socks are fun for the family and will save time and space.

Antiques

ornamentation.

The Carrs had the etegere "dipped" (old varnish removed) and minor repairs made by a cabinetmaker. They refinished it themselves. This treatment brought out the grain of the wood in all its original perfection, and enriched the elaborate rococo decoration.

Preparing to Receive

By Ruth C. Ikerman

WO LITTLE girls stopped by to see me early in the merry month of Christmas. Their eager faces were bright with enthusiasm and happi-

"We just took our first Christmas gift, they explained. No, they had not said they had been given their first gift. Instead this was a gift they had taken to someone

It seemed that with their mother they were stopping to see mc on their way home from the city's neighborhood settlement house. There they had left their old record play-er because they had asked Santa Claus to bring them a larger one. For some reason their mother seemed to feel that Santa was about to honor their longed for request. For this family loves music, and the days are surrounded

"WE THOUGHT if we gave this one away now Santa might know how much we want a new one," they ex-plained earnestly. "The lady where we went said she had 50 boys and girls, and not even one record player."

They were as excited about giving away their cherished machine as they had been on the happy morning two years ago when I had watched them receive it. Their own anticipation for a new one was the keener because they would be going without hearing their records from now until Christmas morning.

As we munched holiday cookies they told me all about the neighborhood house. They had talked to another little girl about her doll while she waited for her mother to pick her up after her day's work. The mother clerked at the market where this family shopped and now even the market seemed a more interesting place.

AS THEY WAVED goodby, I was glad indeed that Santa planned to bring them a new record player. But I was also grateful for their wise modern mother.

She had not yelled, "You kids put some of your old junk in a box and we'll leave it outside for the charity truck." Instead, she had found time to take the little girls directly to the area of need, introducing them to new friends, letting them make a personal gift.

Not everybody has a record player to give away. But every home has some toys which the children have out-grown. This family shows how much fun it can be to give much material to others. when the heart goes with the gift. By this giving the heart is readied to receive.

"No man wants a perfect wife. If you take a fall, perhaps he'll propose that much sooner!"

When the Captain Pulls the Blind

CTHE NYLON PIRATES" by Nicholas Monsarrat (William Sloane Associates, $4.95): One of today's abler storytellers ("The Crucl Sea" and "The Tribe That Lost Its Head") sets this story aboard a swank cruise ship plying between New York and Capetown, by way of the West

Aboard is a "family group" headed by Fagin Wenstrom who, having taken invoice of the passengers - titled personages, millionaires, and others-presides at poker. His attractive mistress and another shapely beauty stick to their trade as call girls and extortionists. Fagin's "neph-ew" keeps himself busy seducing and blackmailing the lonely, not so-young ladies aboard, while the aging professor acts as cashier, leg man and jack-of-all-trades.

Everything goes well until the captain suspects that all is not caviar and champagne and Chopin aboard his hunk of luxury.

The reader may feel like a window peeper, and enjoy watching the hunter and the hunted, but he also may get bored before the captain decides to pull the blind.

"THE CHESS PLAYERS" by Frances Parkinson Keyes (Farrar, Straus and Cudahy, $4.95): Omar Khayyam said it well: "Destiny with men for pieces plays." Mrs. Keyes, who has delighted readers for a good deal more than a generation, has evolved a brilliant novel of New Orleans and Paris - and interestingly enough, she wrote most of it in her New Orleans winter residence, where Paul Morphy, the world's greatest chess player, was born. Morphy emerges as a vital and compelling person in the novel, and through Mrs. Keyes' eyes the reader also becomes acquainted with Civil War leaders, Beauregard, Ben-jamin and Slidell, as human heings, friends and family men. Fact and fiction are woven together in subtle and highly satisfactory fashion.

"SURF-RIDING: Its Thrills and Techniques" by O. B. Patterson (Charles E. Tuttle Co., Rutland, Vt., $3.95): The publishers of some of the most beautiful books to come off the presses this year has done it again, this time with an eye-catcher which takes up surfing from the time Captain Cook was astonished by surfers when he discovered the Hawaiian Islands. The sport, of course, has now spread all over the world, particularly in California, where it continues to grow without being limited by age or sex. The neat pages are loaded with hints for the experts as well as with easyto-follow directions for the beginner. There are 40 illustrations, some of them sensational action shots of the sport at its thrillingesti

Virginia McManus

A story of the pressures and motives that drove her to being a call girl, and her subsequent experiences in the New York Women's House of Detention, is told by Virginia McManus, onetime Chicago school teacher, in "NOT FOR LOVE" (Putnam's, $3.95). The publishers say the book was originally scheduled for publication last March, but was delayed by a barrage of anonymous letters, threats of law suits and attacks on the publishers, all aimed at keeping one name or another out of the book. Publication, they said, was postponed while alterations were made to the manuscript to protect the innocent.

"YOUR DESERT AND MINE" by Nina Paul Shumway (Westernlore Press, Box 41073, Los Angeles 41, $6.75): A teenage bride, Mrs. Shumway landed in Coachella Valley, about 150 miles east of Long Beach, in 1909, the same year that Mrs. Nellie Coffman founded what became the world famous Desert Inn at Palm Springs.-With her were her husband; her father, William L. Paul, with his almost fanatical obsession to raise dates in the valley; and her mother. This book is intended as an autobiography, and while the author often departs from the desert, and its lore and lure, she does tell the story of how her father worked to make his dream of pioneering the date industry at Coachella come true. More than that, it is the story, as seen through the eyes of Mrs. Shumway, of the birth of one of the world's foremost desert resorts — Palm Springs, The book is illustrated and the introduction is by Harold O. Weight, desert historian.

"A SENSE OF VALUES" by Sloan Wilson (Harper, $4.95): For a good many years, readers were accustomed to seeing Sloan Wilson's by-line in The New Yorker, Harper's, etc. Then he catapulted into the limelight with "The Man in the Grey Flannel Suit." Some critics thought it launched him as a 90-day wonder. But Wilson proves his worth by "A Sense of Values" comparable to "Gray Flannel." It's the story of fat, rich, famous cartoonist Nathan Bond who looks in the mirror, and re-members himself as a 15-yearold minister's son who set out to be a pnet and a painter. It backtracks his life, its financial success, its personal failure, and a marriage that should have been fine andturned out tortured, Because Wilson is at heart an optimist, no matter what he writes, order emerges from the shambles of Nathan Bond's life.

"THE DE GAULLE NO-BODY KNOWS" by Alden Hatch (llawthorn, $5): Since he was 10 years old and played war games with his comrades, Charles de Gaulle has looked upon himself as France. "I am France," he told his friends then; "I am France," he still believes, according to Hatch. And De Gaulle believes that he who represents France must stand on a lonely pinnacle, wrapped in grandeur, a man with neither friends nor enemies, Hatch, who has written brilliant biographies of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, Gen. George Patton, President Eisenhower and Pope Pius XII, spent months in France conferring with De Gaulle, members of his family and his associates. He has come up with a fascinating book, filled with hitherto unknown details, with emphasis on De Gaulle's part in rebuilding France and his comeback sparked the Algerian

Pacific Travel Sets Record

A record-breaking volume of travel to the Pacific area during the first half of 1960 was described last week by Edward Shelton, manager of Acme Travel Service, Lakethoone

A survey of 16 countries by the Pacific Area Travel Assn. showed tourist traffic up 22 per cent during the first six months of this year, compared to the same period of 1959, Shelton said. The French is-land of New Caledonia, midway between Australia and Fiji, claimed the largest increase - a whopping 78 per cent. Little Samoa was second, with 57 per cent, and Singapore third, with 28 per

In numbers of tourists, Hawaii as usual was far in front, with 139,000 arriving in the 50th state during January through June, Japan was second, with 110,000 arrivals, and Hong Kong was third, with

NTREPID Southlanders who might be planning a hiking trip in the Himalayas to catch an Abominable Snowman could learn the proper directions from Ghulan Naqshband,

This gentleman, of Saha and Rai Travels, Ltd., of New Delhi, a travel bureau and general agent for Trans World Airlines in Nepal, has been visiting this area to stir up tourist interest in Nepal in conjunction with the "Visit Orient Year, 1961" campaign. His visit coincides with the recent TWA Boeing 707 SuperJel inaugural flight from New York to Bombay, This is the first and only American carrier to be represented in Nepal.

You may recall that Nepal, which nestles in the Himalayas with a population of 10 million people, was relatively unknown until Sir Edmund Hillary's mountain climbing expedition returned from conquering Mt. Everest with tales of Sherpa guides and Abominable Snowmen,

But Nagshband is quick to point out that Nepal has much more to offer than lofty, snow-covered mountains. Lush green valleys, waterfalls and magnificent temples in a perfect state of preservation dot the country-

With the advent of the jet age, tourists now are able to visit many areas which before were known only through storybooks.

Nepal, for instance, is like legendary Shangri-La, preserving the charm and mystery of the Orient, and yet is only a few hours away by jet TWA streaks across the 7,800 miles from New York to Bombay in 15 hours and 45 minutes. Once in Bombay, the tourist can make connections with local airlines to Kathmandu, Nepal's capital. Thus, a Southland tourist may take a jet to New York, transfer to the Bombay flight, and arrive in India in less than 24 hours.

AND SPEAKING of jets, an 11-hour, non-stop "cannonball" service from Los Angeles to London, with Rolls-Royce 707 jets, will be introduced next March 2 by British Overseas Airways Corp. Local departures will be at 10 a.m. Thursdays and Saturdays, arriving in London at 5 p.m. (British time) the following day. The distance: 5,443 miles.

EUROPEANS ARE pleased that more and more Americans are taking to their highways, and are doing something about it. Take Switzerland: This magnificent little country nestled in the Alps launched an extensive program of highway construction which, when completed by 1980, will include 1,045 miles of federal highways and almost 50 miles of urban expresswavs.

Important connections in this network are between Geneva - Lausanne - Chur - San Bernardino, Zurich - Lucerne, Lausanne-Valais and the "Jurafușslinie" following the foot of the Jura mountains, At Geneva, Vallorbe, Basel, Schaffhausen, St. Margreten, Chiasso and Sempione the routes will join the European network of superhighways.

EVEN AUSTRALIA is coming out from "down under." With the veil of distance already drawn open by 10-hour jet scheduled from the West Coast to Sydney, the veil of misconception is to be drawn by a stepped up program of telling Americans about that country. Included in this program is a booklet, "Australia in Brief," which may be obtained from the Australian National Travel Assn. (153 Kearney St., San Francisco 8).

In the booklet's almost 100 pages is told the story of Australia-wonderful surfing just outside of Sydney, beautiful days and nights of the Gold Coast and Barrier Reef areas, the charm of Tasmania, thrills of fishing for 2,000-pound "white death" sharks off Adelaide, the fun of skiing in Australia's own Alps. Read this booklet and you're ready to take off, knowing you'll see plenty besides kangaroos and aborigines!

FAAA AIRPORT, located just a few minutes from Papeete, has been opened on the Pacific island of Tahiti, shortening T.A.J.'s DC-7C flights from Los Angeles by 1½ hours. Before it was completed, planes landed at Bora Bora, 141 miles to the northeast and passengers were required to continue to Tahiti by flying boat

The Los Angeles - Tahiti flight is part of T.A.I.'s transpacific route that continues to Paris and connects with Air France Intercontinental jet flights to Los Angeles completing a French around-theworld service.

Faaa's jet runway extension, now under construction, will be completed next May when T.A.I introduces nonstop DC-8 jetliner service to Los Angeles from Tahiti-a 4,073-mile flight in 8 hours.

WEEKEND GADABOUTS:

An off-the-beaten-path holiday trek is planned to Arizona over the New Year holiday Dec. 30-Jan, 2 via Santa Fe. The railway's Su-per Chief and El Capitan streamliner equipment will be used for the rail portion of the trip, and chartered motor coaches for exploration of the old mining country around Jerome, and the scenic and historic areas of Oak Creek Canyon. Prescott and the Montezuma National Monument. Wickenburg, Phoenix and Clarkdale also are on the itinerary. New Year's Day will be featured by a champagne breakfast in a Fred Harvey diner at Phoenîx. Reservation or information may be obtained by telephoning MA 2-4930.

IF YOU SHOULD visit Palm Springs before Dec. 25, it will be well worth your while to drive on up to Joshua Tree (16 miles west of Twentynine Palms) for an outdoor pageant being presented at 7:30 p.m. daily until Christmas. An event rated with the "top 10" of the "100 most colorful and interesting events in Southern California" by the All-Year Club, its purpose is to keep Christ in Christmas, All scenes — the garden, shepherds' field, King Herod's palace and the stable at the Inn-are included, with the audience seated in their cars. Sacred music is sung and, as the pageant unfolds, Biblical characters appear in silent action. The entire story is narrated, and no admission is charged.

PET PARADE

Pets Share Holidays

By Eleanor Avery Price

DETS RECEIVE a large share of attention at Christmas; in fact, one distributor reports that pet goodies and toys for the yule season return him an income of nearly a million dollars an-

Much more important, however, than gifts tucked under the Christmas tree is the consideration a pet needs at this season. The home becomes increasingly disturbing to pets, what with the added hubbub and excitement, with the many comings and goings. Christmas can be a worrisome and wearisome ordeal, especially if the pet happens to be a yule gift, new to surroundings.

Be certain a pet has a secluded place where it can "get away from it all" part of the time. Remember to feed the pet regularly and groom it if necessary. And watch that it does not peck, chew, or nibble on Christmas trees that have been dyed or sprayed. Tinsel, angel hair, "snow," and other ornaments can also prove fatal, especially to parakeets. So make it a safe Christmas for pets as well as a merry one.

For centuries people of many nations have showered animals with gifts at Christmas. One of the most universal and quaint old-time customs is to leave food out for the animals that bring Santa Claus and his gift-laden sled.

IN FINLAND, where Santa can arrive with either horses or reindeer, children put out straw near the door so the animals can feed or have a place to rest while waiting for old St. Nick to make his happy deliveries.

Children in Syria, a country close to the scene of the Nativity, believe that camels bring them Christmas pres-

In some sections of England and France, farm animals are feted at Christmas time in tribute for their deeds of labor during the year. Following their own hearty feast. the farmers, accompanied by their families and guests, go to the buildings housing their beasts. A toast is proposed in honor of the hard-working helpers, and everyone drinks, cheers, and brags heartily about their animals,

ON THE FARMS of Norway and Sweden, birds are fed and befriended with sheaves of grain attached to high poles. In these and other European countries there is a legend that a goose, as well as burros, oxen, and other animals, witnessed the arrival of the Wise Men, but that they drew back shyly and stopped their peaceful munching of straw and their low sounds of communication with each other. Dismayed that not one animal stepped forward to welcome the strangers, the goose waddled forth as bravely as possible and attempted to utter polite greetings. She was so awed, however, that she could only creak harshly. To this day the goose has the same voice, the legend asserts.

Peril Was Part of the Price

By Maymie R. Krythe

began their rush to the California gold fields, transportation was the major problem. Many dreaded the overland route, preferring to journey by sea in spite of perils afloat, either around the stormy Horn, or by Atlantic coast vessels to Nicaragua or the Isthmus of Panama, to re-ship for San Francisco. Steamers were overcrowded and prices exorbitant.

Various catastrophies plagued these travelers. Often, after they left Panama, fever broke out and many died. Cholera claimed other victims; more than one ship went on the rocks; sometimes boilers blew up; and some ships were destroyed by fire.

In July 1855, the Sierra Nevada buried at sea 31 passengers who had contracted cholera on the 10-day run from Nicaragua to San Francisco. On the Uncle Sam, 111 died from cholera.

or Nicaragua were seldom out of sight of land. By hugging the coast, they saved fuel and other supplies. Some officers, unfortunately, were unaware of danger spots. Charls were incomplete or altogether lacking and there were no buoys or lighthouses in early days.

In 1953, the Tennessee and Winfield Scott of the Pacific Mail Line ran aground and were lost. The Tennessee, with many passengers aboard, piled up on the beach in a heavy fog near San Francisco. The weather was calm for two days and all persons and freight were taken off safely. Plans were made to pull the ship free but the weather changed and the ship was broken up.

In December 1853, the Winfield Scott, out of San Francisco, struck the island of Anacapa in a dense fog. The impact stove in her bow, and she rapidly filled with water. Luckily, the vessel stayed afloat until all persons were taken off. Then she sank, with the loss of much valuable mail and express.

THE PASSENGERS and crew settled down to await a rescue ship. On the second day, they sighted the California in the Santa Barbara Channel. This was one report of the rescue:

"A gun was fired from the island as a signal. She did not hear the gun, but the smoke was seen, and attention altracted to the island, which was crowded with people, and they immediately went over and took off the ladies..."

Ship's officers of the Tennessee and the Winfield Scott were praised for their good work.

However, such was not the case when the Union ran aground on the Lower California Peninsula. The vessel was a total loss, but passengers, crew and much of the cargo was saved. As the sea had been calm and the weather clear, San Franciscans were puzzled until survivors arrived. They then learned that after a big July 4 celebration, no watch was kept on deck; also that the helmsman had fallen asleep at the wheel.

ANOTHER catastrophe struck the North America on her northward journey from Nicaragua in 1852. One of her 900 passengers made this statement:

"The evening was beautiful, the atmosphere clear, the moon bright, and the stars twinkling in all their brilliancy. About 11 o'clock the first male thought he saw something on shore, and called the captain, who immediately came on deck, mounted the wheelhouse, and took a survey of the coast. At this time we were running too close to the shore, and should have kept her off: but, instead of this, he changed her course toward the shore, when she immediately struck."

Although she grounded on a sandy beach, it was impossible to re-float her, as the heavy surf kept the vessel high on land. Passengers, with supplies for the 50-mile trek to Acapulco, were landed. When the historian, Hubert H. Bancroft, reached Acapulco a few days later he found that nearly all in the party were out of money. Passengers on the Tennessee raised funds, as did various groups in San Francisco. Commodore Vanderbilt's line, the Pacific Mail, was severely criticized for actions in this emergency.

During the latter half of the nineteenth century, several ships were lost along this coast by fires. In 1902, the S. S. Progreso burned near San Francisco.

WORST CALAMITY of this kind was the destruction of the side wheeler, Golden Gate, for 10 years a popular vessel

Christmas Is a Happy Time for Movies By the Shutterbug

TWO THINGS are for sure about making movies at Christmastime. One is that no occasion promises more significant and memorable picture opportunities. And the other is that no pictures can tell the Christmas story, from the hanging of the stockings by the fireplace to the carving of the holiday turkey as completely, as colorfully and as effortlessly-as those made with a personal movie. camera. Before attempting to prove our points to your satisfaction, we'll assume that, to date, you've never held a movie camera in your hands and tell you a few of the simple facts about becoming a movie-maker.

First of all, it's easy. And probably much less expensive than you think, Cameras and color film are so versatile these days that it takes effort for even a beginner to go wrong,

A movie camera operates just as easily as any other camera - except that when you press the exposure button it purrs instead of clicks.

Some models, just as with still cameras, have lots of photographic extras, and they cost just about as much the more versatile still cameras. Many are as simple and movie-makers say even simpler . . . than the most elemental box cameras. although they inevitably cost a bit more because movie cameras have unusually "fast" lenses and must also have the precisely controlled spring motor and mechanism necessary to smooth and troublefree movie making. Yet there are several you can buy for less than $50 . . . some for less than $30.

MOVIE CAMERAS are every bit as easy to use as snapshot cameras for the very reason that they take movies and not snapshots. They take movies of motion which, with the more elementary still cameras, would blur the picture. With a movie camera, however, you hope your subjects will move - although you don't have to have motion in every scene to enjoy good movies.

Film cost? Scene for scene, movies cost no more than snapshots, with one reason being that the film you shoot is the film you show. You must have your pictures developed, of course. But you don't have to order prints,

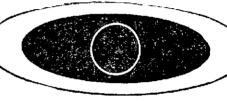

Ease? Many movie cameras re "fixed-focused," which means that with them everything's always sharp from a few feet way out to infinity. There's no shutter speed to estimate because they're designed to run at a speed that will capture action at the speed of action. And the one simple setting for exposure is a downright ciuch. Built-in guides tell you how to set the lens so as to match the light under which you're shooting. Which means, outdoors, from dawn to dusk. Indoors, all you need is an inexpensive light bar that holds both camera and a pair of reflector flood lamps. Here, exposure's easier than ever because a reasonably accurate guess of the distance from lights-to-subject is what determines the lens opening you use, and, for each distance, a guide indicates the proper opening. You just set the lens accordingly . . . point the camera . . . squeeze the button—and the camera and film do the rest.

MERRY CHRISTMAS TO YOU ALL!

Buying good stock pays off in bare-root roses. The $2 rose (i) has sturdy roots; the 59-center (r) does not.

Good Rose Stock Pays

By Joe Littlefield

THERE'S A vast difference in quality between "bargain" bare root roses, and quality roses. Often the quality of a rose is judged by the number of branches, forgetting the most important factor which is quality and size of roots. A husky root system presages fast-growing, good-sized rose bushes, and good flowers.

Years ago, when I super-vised estate gardens, I learned a valuable lesson about roses. Failure of some roses to perform as well as others in the same bed, even though they received same proper care, was a puzzle. Finally, by digging up several bushes to see if the trouble might be with the roots, it was dis-covered that the roots had been pruned ruthlessly when the roses were transplanted several years before. The root stubs had calloused and sent forth a number of long stringy roots. They didn't have the "body" to produce the necessary feeder roots.

So remember, when you buy bare-root roses, consider the root system as well as

Strip Them!

When pruning roses re-member to strip off all leaves that haven't fallen of their own accord. The seldom go completely dor-mant in most California climates; and any leaves left are carriers for dormant fungus spores and hibernating pests such as thrips.

And don't prune too soon; probably not until the buds start to swell in January.

They are available in larger quantities this year and the supply should be adequate.

RUSTY IS the first All-merica "smoky" and is America beautiful, big, tall and husky. Though a massive variety. the proportions are well balanced and dignified. The chocolaty red of the fluted, suede-textured florets, formally placed on long spikes, blends harmoniously into the subdued "smoky" color, a lively and supple gypsy in carefree, dancing mood. Gracefully ruffled florets on slender stems are a vivid scarlet-orange with a sunburst of yellow on the lower petals. The color is fresh and vibrant, valuable for arrangements and make-up work.

Gypsy Dancer symbolizes

CHINA BLUE was prized and admired during its initial testing. With its formal debut, a whole new group of gardeners will join the cheering section. The color of China Blue is soft - blue - violet -deeper at the petal tips, then lighter toward the center where a deep violet blotch punctuates the lower petals. It's a picture reminiscent of a fragile, antique, china vase but the flower has wonderfully heavy substance and is a robust grower.

All-America Gladiolus Selections maintains 46 trial gardens in the United States and Canada, in every type of soil and climate. Awards must be won against keen competition with new seedlings from all over North

Design for Longevity

(Continued from Page 8) One of the most satisfying accomplishments is the mastery of a musical instrument. The late architectural genius Frank Lloyd Wright used music as a way to enrich life and the imagination. Often in his travels he would buy strange primitive instruments, bring them home, and learn to play them. He derived much personal pleasure from these achievements, and he felt that music was so important to everyday life that he always provided for its place in the home.

AN ACTIVITY in which one may find prestige as well as achievement is assuming responsibilities in community affairs. Political party participation can be most stimulating to the mind, and keeps one in touch with people of all ages. As one property owner puts it, "I like to attend the Improvement Association meetings because it gives me a chance to put in my 2c worth in the running of the town,'

To keep pace with worldwide as well as local progress, adult education offers courses on almost any subpect. "To learn what is new is to re-main forever young," said the great Greek poet Acschylus

many centuries ago, and in these classes one will also find new friends with common interests who will help combat the loncliness that has long been associated with age

Periodically, it is a good idea to take stock of one's interests, and maybe substitute such an active one like "parachute jumping" for another that may be enjoyed more in the later, less active years.

With the "prepare as you go" plan for the later years in operation, the words of Robert Browning should hold "Grow old along with me! The best is yet to be, The last of life, for which the first was made."

DON MAY It's for Gamblers

IVELY? You bet. With its cocktail waitresses dressed in "can-can" girl costumes, its beefy bartenders, paintings of naughty ladies and zingy banjo music, the Gay 90's restaurant, 2508 Palm Dr., has become the sassiest spot on Signal Hill.

Since he took over last summer, Don May, who is also proprietor of the Leilani in Belmont Shore, has given this old-time "joint" a new personality, Don's good humor is evident even on his menu, which offers delicious, generous dinners priced from $1.95. Specialty of the house is Don's Gambler's Steak ($2.45), which he boasts is "all rustled stock." Also featured are "Our Neighbor's Chickens," southern fried for $1.95; broiled Australian lobster tail 'served upright even though it's from down under" at $3.45; delectable Hawaiianstyle barbecued ribs imported from the Leilani, $2.45; and spaghetti and meaballs, $1.95, All include soup du jour from a huge tureen left on the table, green salad, baked polato, French bread, coffee and dessert. Also fea-tured are pizzas and "all the spaghetti you can eat for $1.50."

OPEN DAILY and Sundays from 5 p.m. on, the Gay 90's (which is closed Mondays) features entertainment on nickelodeons, community singing of old-time songs and the fancy banjo-plinking and plano-playing of Jimmy Sills. Parties for groups to 100 are served at no increase in prices in the Naughty 90's banquet room. Another room available for smaller is groups.

The Gay 90's will be closed Christmas Day, but reservations are now being accepted for the restaurant's high-stepping, boisterous New Year's Eve party, Tabbed at $15 per couple, the blow-out will include bubbly champagne, dinner and favors.

EVE ARDEN LAMENTS LOSS OF HUMOR

'People Afraid to Laugh,' Eve Arden Maintains

By VERNON SCOTT UPI Hallywood Carrespondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)-Eve Arden, an accomplished comedienne, shook her pretty head in dismay today over the heating TV comedies are taking in the ratings war.

Comedy runs dead last to westerns, mystery and drama programs, and the former "Our Miss Brooks" has the answer. "We've become a nation of critics," she said.

"People seem afraid to laugh and admit they have enjoyed a comedy show. They ask their neighbors how they like a show to check their afraid of being square.

"AFTER WATCHING a comedy they feel it should be criticized before expressing any enjoyment of the show." Eve doesn't place all the blame on home viewers. She says sponsors and advertising agencies are even more at fault for the low estate of humor on television.

"When you have an idea for a pilot, the brass comes in and dares the performers to be funny.

"Businessmen aren't qualified to determine humor anymore than I would tell them how to sell soap. They bring in graphs and charts to show what people think is funny. This is EVE SAID not a month goes by in which she isn't asked to star in a new series. But Eve is playing it cozy.

"I won't accept a show that doesn't give me and my producers artistic freedom to do what we think is best. My last show didn't have a chance to prove itself.

Personally, I think the public has lost its sense of humor. People take themselves too seriously and fail to see what is funny in life. The British love to kid themselves, but Americaus get awfully touchy about comedy," she said.

Since leaving her weekly series Eve has toured the country in various comedies, and starred in "Dark At The Top of the Stairs" in the movies.

"My first love is comedy," she went on. "Sick humor but there also is a place for comedy.

"It is a matter of individuals making themselves more to the criticism to the receptive to good comedy, and to leave the criticism to the

Actor-Chips Off the Old Blocks

By Terry Vernon
Independent, Press-Telegram TV Columnist

OUNG Teddy Rooney was held back from show business by his father until he was sure the boy was ready.

"After all," explained Mickey, "there was no point in rushing him."

Consequently it was not until Teddy was 5 that he made his tardy professional debut when his father hired him for a role in the last gasp of the Andy Hardy movie series, "Andy Hardy Comes Home."

The elder Rooney literally crawled before the footlights as a gurgling one-year-old when he escaped from his backstage crib and became the third member of what had been billed as a romantic singing duet.

Mickey is the son of for-mer vaudevillians Joe Yule and Nell Carter. He grew up in the wings of theaters across the country. At six, he was playing the title role in a long skein of Mickey Mc-Guire movies. Teddy, born in 1950 of the marriage of Rooney and actress Martha Vickers, has appeared in a handful of television specials, but still is at the point where working before cameras is pure fun.

A TUTOR TRAILS Teddy on every acting job during the school year, reminiscent of the days when his father was the prodigy of movie studio schools.

Mickey and Teddy appear together this evening for the first time on television in

MICKEY ROONEY AND SON TEDDY

General Electric Theater at 9 p.m. on KNXT, channel 2.

Played against the back-ground of big-time harness racing, "The Money Driver" deals with a sulky driver (Mickey) who fiercely strives for top prize money while deliberately destroying his son's (Teddy) love for him. A stable owner's daughter finally uncovers the driver's dreadful secret and his reasons for mistreating his boy.

Today's father-son appearance of the Rooney's marks the first of three father-son teams in dramatic episodes to be telecast on CBS this week. Bill Marx makes his acting debut with his father Harpo on June Allyson's show, "Silent Panic," at 10:30 p.m. Thursday, while 7-year-old Peter Boone makes his TV debut on father Richard's "Have Gun, Will Travel" episode at 9:30 p.m. Saturday, YOUNG BOONE plays a little boy at a fort during a visit by Paladin, played by his father.

Bill Marx has only one line in the Thursday drama, but the 24-year-old youth is quick to point out that it's a bigger speaking part than his famous father has had in his entire show business career. Harpo, as usual, doesn't say a word.

CHEVY SHOW-Gale Storm, Douglas Fairbanks Jr. and the King Sisters join Roy Rogers, Dale Evans, Trigger Jr. and the Sons of the Pioneers in their "Home for Christmas" COLORcast. Roy and Dale's 8 children, 6 grandchildren and several spouses join the reunion at 9 p.m. on channel 4.

THIS IS YOUR LIFE-The taped life of tape busting Jayne Mansfield, set last Sunday when she was participant in life of Johnny Grant. It's at 10:30 p.m. on channel 4.

Roy Rogers' Family on TV Tonight

HOLLYWOOD howling for more family-type shows will get their cup of tea western style 9 p.m. today (Sunday) when Roy Rogers and his family star in an hour-long special on chan-

And when Roy says "family" that's exactly what he means. In addition to his wife, Dale Evans, he will introduce his eight children and six grandchildren. How's that for a family program?

"The King of the Cowboys" will put aside his shootin' irons to kick off the Christmas season.

"DALE TALKED me into it," Roy said.

Then the movie-TV hero who has faced the guns of scores of killers admitted he was scared to death.

"I was afraid of live television. I'm still scared of making a bad mistake in front of all the people who'll be watching. But I figured if my kids are brave enough to give it a try, I should, too."

NBC will reconstruct much of Roy's San Fernando Val-ley ranch home on one of its cavernous stages to heighten the hominess of the show.

"THE OLDER I get the more I find that I've become sort of a family personality in show business," Roy grinned.

"When I first started out in pictures a lot of my fans were kids. Well, as the years have gone by they've grown up and married and have children of their own. They still want to see me perform, and now their youngsters have become fans, too."

In recent years Rogers, who made 101 TV shows, has become more businessman than celluloid cowboy.

He has amassed a fortune, merchandising more than 400 products with 45 different manufacturers. Roy endorses everything from comic books to bedspreads.

HIS LATEST venture is National Football League Enterprises which will market football equipment and souvenirs for all the teams in the NFL.

"I'm still a cowboy at heart," he said. "As you can see from this suit I'm wear-

Roy was decked out in a jacket with saddle-stitch piping. His necktie was gold and silver ambossed. He wore a ring in the shape of a western saddle.

"Looks as if I've turned into a dude," he said. "But out on the ranch I wear blue jeans, boots and an old shirt. I keep busy with the chores out there.'

ON HIS RANCH Roy raises quarterhorses and keeps cows, chickens, ducks and his own beef cattle.

"Old 'Trigger' is out there too. I've ridden him in pictures, television and rodeos for 23 years now. He's 28 years old and still going strong. My two little girls, Dodie and Debbie, ride him around now.

"We slaughter our own beef out there and try to keep the place as close to real ranch life as possible."

Roy says he doesn't want the grind of another weekly television show again. It takes too much time from his fam-

"I'm doing eight specials a year now for NBC, and that's just about perfect. Some of them are musical programs, some variety shows, and two are rodeos.

"It is family entertainment. That's what the people seem to want, and Dale and I are more than happy to give it to them."

ROY ROGERS double-checks his family's Christmas list with Santa Claus. His family will be on TV with Roy at 9 p.m. today (Sunday),

Fearless Tom Duggan Pans Reporter Jerry Ezrin 💆

By BERT RESNIK TV-and Radio Editor

One of our reporters has merited much sought for dis-

Jerry Ezrin has been panned by television's fearless Tom Duggan, video's self-appointed dispenser of inflammatory oratory,

Most newsmen will readily agree that, to get burned by Duggan's brand, is almost better than getting a trophy for the "Story of the Year." For Jerry, this form of distinction came about comparatively innocently.

Following an interview with Steve Allen, Jerry wrote about the comedian author's earlier appearance on the Duggan gan's interrupting remarks.

"I never watch his show," Allen told Jerry, "But I gathered from my one experience that he doesn't know what he talks about."

Fearless Tom didn't like this quote and subsequently took his venom out on Jerry, referring to him as a "so-called reporter."

Jerry, of course, feels very happy about the whole thing. It isn't the run-of-the-mill reporter who comes in for the impact of Doggan's ire fire.

And I dislike minimizing that happy feeling, but Jerry, old Buddy, the distinction just isn't what it used to be,

I don't think too many people heard Duggan nomin-ating you for his "Hall of Pain" because, Jerry, old because, Jerry, old Buddy, I don't think too many people watch him anymore.

THERE WAS a time when they did.

During that period, any adverse mention of Duggan in this newspaper's daily column would gring a flood of letters in protest.

Not so long ago, however, our daily TV column carried a minute-by minute score of the amount of time Duggan's program devoted to commercials. It was an enormous amount of commercial time.

The column, nevertheless, watching the commercials was better expended than listening to Duggan,

A mere three letters of protest were received-no flood, not even a drizzle's worth of

THE COLUMN was written, incidentally, shortly after Duggan returned from one of unauthorized "sick leaves,"

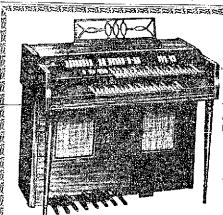

At that time, I asked a ranking member of KCOP's (channel 13) officialdom why ĥe always took Duggan back.

"The sponsors like him."

Life of Christ Depicted on Television

NEW YORK (UPI)-Often at Christmas we celebrate the birth of Christ, and depict it. and sing about it-and get no further.

The producer-director of "The Coming of Christ," which will tell the old, old story at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, channel 4 through 300 of the world's greatest paintings, framed round with the spoken word of the King James ver-sion as a script, believes the Christmas spirit entails more than the Nativity.

The show is the newest of the NBC-TV "Project 20" series. Of the half-hour colorcast, producer Donald B. Hyatt says:

"I've always wanted to do something for Christmas that was different and exciting. are opening with the prophecies of the coming of a Messiah and are taking the story of Christ up to the Ser-mon On the Mount. By then He had stated the premises of Christianity-the essence. We end on the message of love of fellow man, His greatest teaching.

"Eighty-five per cent of the words we use are from the Bible, with little transition passages. When we first ran the sound track of the film, we all had tears in our eyes.

"After about a year of research by our staff we have today the greatest collection of reproduction of religious art concerning the life of Christ in the world. These are from more than 50 museums.

"We had a choice of going all over the world with either motion picture cameras or still cameras to get these. We've discovered you get much better and sharper reproduction by taking still pic-tures. I've had to go through 2,500 pictures for the plotting, and I approached each picture as if it were a live scene.

"For years people have tried to excuse the still picture. They move around on it with a TV camera, and zoom in and out—and that's not needed. The audience gets to feeling they're watching a technique. We have brought a true respect for the stills,

The happiest day of my life

by DONNA REED

THERE ARE MANY happy days in the life of every girl the day her fiance proposed, her wedding day, the days on which her children were born.

I number all of these among my happy days. But there is one special day I call my happiest.

It took place 20 years ago. I had come to Los Angeles from lowa, a tecnager. I enrolled in Los Angeles City College. I had very little money, and in order to get through school I had to work. Having been raised on a farm, I wasn't afraid of hard work. As a youngster I'd milked cows, driven the tractor, fed hogs.

To case my financial burden, I worked as a clerk, a messenger girl, a librarian, a telephone operator. Somehow I managed to exist and still find time to study.

For relaxation I joined the little theater group at college and appeared in two plays. Because of this I became fairly well-known, and the students elected me campus queen. My photo appeared in the newspapers, and I was offered a screen test. But I turned it down. I had worked too long and too hard not to graduate.

Two months later, in February 1941, I was graduated, and it was then that I rushed to MCM. The studio tested nie, found I was photogenic and gave me a bit part in a film everyone has forgotten except me. It was called The Getaway and starred Robert Sterling, Charles Winninger, and another young player, Dan Dailey.

The First Paycheck

I went to work on a Friday. It was all so new, exciting and glamorous. On the following Thursday, I ran to the eashier's window and received my first paycheck—for $75. It was the most money I had ever earned.

My first impulse was to take the $75 and splurge, to buy everything that I needed and wanted. But my farmer's prudence prevented that.

Instead I put in a long distance phone call to my folks back in Iowa. I told them about my "big break," about all the famous movie stars I was working and eating with. I described the studio, the dressing rooms, the directors, the extras. I painted a fabulous picture of my supposedly fabulous future. The folks let me talk on and on. They couldn't get a word in.

When I was finished, I asked the operator for time and charges. I will never forget the amount that call cost me: $74.60—practically my entire psycheck.

I didn't mind one bit. This, I decided, was the most memorable day of my life, a day in which, after years of drudgery and struggling through school, I could talk about my first week's achievement as a motion picture actress.

I realized then that never again would I experience the newness in pride and accomplishment as represented by that $75 paycheck. And I was right, too.

Marjorie Steele smiles happily with grocery chain store heir Huntington Hartford III three days after 1949 wedding.

Bobo Rockefeller, daughter of a coal miner, was the Cinderella of 1948 when she married Winthrop Rockefeller.

HOW MUCH IS A

by LLOYD SHEARER

A FEW WEEKS AGO Marjorie Steele, a former cigarette girl in Ciro's night club, Hollywood, asked a New York court to award her a record $25 million in alimony.

Miss Steele, 31, is the estranged actress-wife of Huntington Hartford, 48, whose fortune from the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company grocery stores is estimated at $50 million.

The Hartfords have been married 11 years and have two children, Cathy, 10, and Jackie, 8.

Mrs. Hartford, a shapely, beautiful brunette from San Francisco who became a competent actress with her husband's limitless financial backing, has accused Hartford of misconduct with half a dozen women.

For this and her almost 12 years of marriage, she wants half his fortune.

Does this woman deserve approximately $2 million for each year of matrimony spent with the A&P heir? Or is this the penalty a husband must pay if proven guilty? (Hartford was quick to enter a general denial of the misconduct charges.)

What this does is raise the age-old question: HOW MUCH IS A WIFE WORTH?

When Marjorie Steele began going with Huntington Hartford in 1949, she was often penniless. On many occasions she borrowed a few dollars from the president of the June Allyson Fan Club and other movie-struck young hopefuls she knew in Hollywood. She met Hartford through Charles Chaplin Jr. She was working to pay her way through the Actors' Lab, a drama workshop. She wanted desperately to become a screen star. Young Hartford was so smitten with her that he financed a film for his future bride called Tough Assignment. Later he helped her get other parts.

In addition to her acting opportunities, she also owes to Hartford a dozen years of luxurious living, for as she herself pointed out in her recent affidavit to the New York State Supreme Court, Hartford maintains a large ocean-going yacht, homes in Paris, London, Palm Beach, Nassau and New York. He lives in a manner befitting a multi-millionaire.

Because he introduced her to a world she had never before known, Hartford will probably have to support his ex-wife in the same high style.

To her marriage Marjorie Steele contributed love, children, comfort, companionship and care. She had nothing to do with founding or increasing the Hartford fortune, but she wants half of it in alimony.

Will she get it? Probably not $25 million, but probably a huge settlement, provided, of course, that she can prove her husband guilty as charged. For success in such a divorce action is prerequisite to a generous alimony award.

Alimony or Marriage

For example, take the Eleanor Holm-Billy Rose divorce, which came to the fore recently when several weeks ago Eleanor Holm, the former Olympic swimming star, took an overdose of sleeping pills and was found unconscious in the North Bay, Fla., home of her good and close friend, Tom Whalen, former Las Vegas night club and gambling casino operator.

For 15 years Eleanor reigned on Broadway as the wife of the small but mighty showman, Billy Rose. And then one day blonde actress Joyce Matthews was found with her wrists slashed in Rose's New York apartment. What was Miss Matthews doing there? What was her relationship with Rose?

Here are women who hit the alimony jackpot

Bobo Rockefeller: she won a $6,393,-000 divorce settlement from Winthrop Rockefeller in 1954.

Elizabeth Dillard: a $9 million settlement in 1946 from R. J. "Dick" Reynolds tobacco heir.

Marianne O'Brien, an ex-chorus girl: $2 million from R. J. Reynolds.

Dorothy Hart: $11/2 million settlement in 1947 from William Paley, president of CBS.

Nancy Sinatra: $50,000 a year, plus 10 per cent of Frank Sinatra's income over $150,000 a year.

Anna Kashfi: $500,000 payable in 10 years from Marlon Brando.

Greta Peck: $65,000 a year from exhusband Gregory Peck.

Betsy Kelly: a $500,000 settlement from actor Gene Kelly.

Dorothy Hart, actress, divorced CBS prexy William Paley after 15-year marriage, is now wed to industrial consultant.

The Short End

"You cannot slice a pie in half," says a former Judge of the Los Angeles Superior Court, "and end up with two pies, each the size of the original. Take a man with a monthly income of $400. His wife sues for divorce. She is awarded custody of their three children and slightly more than $100 a month to feed, clothe and shelter herself and offspring. Unless she goes out and works, she cannot make ends meet. As for her husband, his future earnings are mortgaged by his obligation to pay alimony and support.

But these cases are so common that they rarely make news. What does make the headline is the movie star's ex-wife who wants her alimony increased from $60,000 to $80,000 a year. The public reads this and snickers. People say to themselves, 'Another example of the alimony racket. The truth is that in most divorces the wife gets the short end of the financial stick, and the husband little more than a bare existence."

Even wealthy men can be pauperized by divorce and alimony. Latest example is Mickey Rooney. Last month the diminutive screen star, once Hollywood's leading box-office attraction, appeared at a debtor's hearing conducted by Simon Taub, attorney for Mickey's fourth wife, Elaine Mahnken. Elaine wanted $33,000 in back alimony. The actor thereupon revealed that he was scraping the bottom of his money barrel.

"I've had five wives," he explained, "and four kids, and my present wife is expecting another baby in January. With what I owe the government in back taxes and what I pay out each month in alimony and child support-well, I'm down to my last five bucks."

The public feels little sympathy for Lotharios, Its sympathy does go to the average husband who accepts the defendant's role in a divorce case, and thereby leaves himself open to financial penalties. He often cannot remarry because of dire financial straits or, in the event of a second marriage, he finds he cannot adequately support two households. Life deteriorates into a bitter, seemingly endless struggle.

To help such men, some states have statutes limiting the amount of alimony a wife may receive. In Louisiana she is restricted to one-third of her ex-husband's income. In New Hampshire, if no minor children are involved, alimony is limited to three years. In some states, however, a woman can be supported by two husbands since a wife's remarriage does not terminate the alimony obligation of the first husband. In New York a first husband does not have to pay alimony if his former wife remarries.

It's a safe bet that Huntington Hartford hopes his wife finds another husband in a hurry.

WIFE WORTH?

Rather than create a scandal, Eleanor flew to Las Vegas and obtained a divorce on grounds of mental cruelty, but only after Billy had agreed to pay $600 a week alimony until she remarried, plus $200,000 in 10 years.

Friends of Miss Holm hint that Eleanor may face the dilemma that she now wants to get married but doesn't want to give up $600 a week.

How many ex-wives are worth the alimony they are receiving? (See box, above.)

Few questions can so violently kindle the emotions. Women maintain that the husband who loses a wife via divorce cannot default on his obligation and turn his wife and children to the charities of society.

Many men, on the other hand, believe that alimony is a racket engaged in by devious, grasping, vindictive females. They point out that frequently alimony is awarded to women who can easily take care of themselves, women with separate sufficient incomes.

Today, practically every woman who demands alimony gets it regardless of her financial condition, provided the husband is recognized by the court as the guilty party in the divorce action. Should the husband bring a divorce action and the wife be found guilty, say, of adultery, desertion or cruelty, the wife in most states cannot obtain alimony, or at best only a limited alimony. Usually, it is the husband who gallantly accepts the marital blame.

Take the recent case of the Eddie Fisher-Debbie Reynolds divorce. By its terms Fisher has to pay his ex-wife a minimum of $1,250 a month plus a fat percentage of his earnings for 30 months. For the next 91 months he must pay a minimum of $833 a month plus a percentage of his earnings. In addition he must pay for the support of their two children $4,500 to 86,000 per month. The couple's $125,000 home also was awarded to Miss Reynolds. In 20 years Fisherwho was married to Debbie for all of three yearswill have paid out at least $1 million in alimony and support payments.

It happens that Debbie Reynolds currently is capable of earning from $500,000 to $1 million a year in films and television. Fisher earns much less.

Thus, the presumption by the court in the Fisher-Reynolds divorce that the wife might be dependent upon society unless she received adequate alimony was obviously a sample of old-fashioned reckoning.

A Rule of Thumb

Alimony in America is largely a matter of judicial discretion. It is awarded on the basis of guilt, length of marriage, needs of the wife, ability of the husband to pay, chances of inheritance, a couple's standard of living and other factors.

Generally, a judge will award the wife-again on the basis of her husband's "guilt"-from one-third to one-half of her husband's income. According to her husband she may not be worth it, but the legal rule of thumb is that she is. In community property states such as California, Arizona, Idaho, Nevada, New Mexico, Texas, Louisiana and Washington, the basic payoff is 50-50 on property acquired by the wife and husband after the marriage, unless one party is found guilty of adultery or extreme cruelty, in which case the community property may be assigned "to the parties in such proportions as the court deems just.

Judges I have interviewed declare that the key factor in setting the amount of alimony is the ability of the husband to pay it. Otherwise an alimony award becomes a theoretical gesture. Awards are not made to a

Meet Llewellyn Thompson

He has the toughest job in our foreign service

A SK MOST WESTERN diplomats to name the toughest job in the U.S. foreign service that President-elect Kennedy will be called upon to fill, and you will likely get the answer in one word: Moscow.

MOSCOW.

Ask 100 Americans who our ambassador to Moscow is now. Few will be able to give his name: Llewellyn Thompson.

To exercise influence here, an ambassador must have a keen nose for intrigue. He must be braced for spur-of-the moment diplomacy over vodka and eaviar.

He must contend with Khrushchev, the boisterous, chullient, unpredictable Suviet leader who dominates the scene like a medieval czar. The American ambassador must also cope with the Russian secret police. These police are posted in cars across the street from the U.S. embassy building in Moscow, checking and sometimes following embassy personnel.

An ambassador to the Soviet Union occupies a front seat witnessing the bizarre, upside-down drama of the Communist world, in which the script doesn't always mean what it says and the characters often do the least expected. It is a hot seat that needs a cool man to sit on it.

Such a man is Ambassador Thompson, who has been our eyes and ears behind the Iron Curtain for nearly four years.

What makes Moscow such a difficult place for diplomacy? An ambassador in a friendly country — such as Britain — has unlimited opportunities for frank business and social discussions with government leaders. He has access to an uncensored press and can move about freely.

Discreet Diplomacy

A diplomat in Moscow is completely cut off from uninhibited contact with Soviet officials or citizens. And he is responsible for the welfare of more than 100 U.S. embassy aides and their dependents in a state which considers it fair play to compromise, embarrass, humiliate—and expel—diplomatic representatives.

But if Moscow is the toughest spot for diplomacy, it is also the most dramatic.

Thompson is a career diplomat with 31 years of service. A master at discreet diplomacy, he holds a Distinguished Service Award for "firmness, patience, negotiating skill and good judgment."

When President-elect Kennedy weighs 'Thompson's qualifications against those of other candidates he may consider for the toughest job in our foreign service, the record will reveal the following:

He is regarded by the Soviet Ministry of Foreign Affairs as one of the few people who report accurately and objectively on Soviet affairs.

Family group poses at official residence, Spaso House. Between Ambassador and wife Jane is Fernanda, Mrs. Thompson's daughter by farmer marriage. Standing are Jenny, 10, Sherry, 6.

Thompson is the only American envoy ever to appear on Russian television. He spoke for 15 minutes in fluent Russian; urging the freer exchange of information.

When Thompson gave his traditional Independence Day party last July, he expected it to be boycotted because of post-Summit and U-2 tensions. Instead, 300 Russian officials, headed by First Deputy Premier Frol Koslov, showed up "as a mark of respect to an honest diplomat."

Khrushchev respects the Thompsons. Just as her husband is reserved, Jane Thompson is outgoing. She sparkles with wit, is the spirit of any party. She has demonstrated her ability to charm Khrushchev—with the help, on one occasion, of daughters Jenny and Sherry. The Thompsons were invited for a rare visit to Khrushchev's country house. Captivated by the Thompson girls Khrushchev asked them what they would like to do. Both agreed they would like to go riding. He promptly ordered ponies for them.

Thompson's critics, while acknowledging his efficiency and dedication, believe he is too self-effacing for the rough-and-tumble of Khrushchev-style diplomacy. But Thompson believes that the real work of diplomacy takes place not in debates at cocktail parties, which he considers the most disagreeable part of his joh, but behind the scenes.

Thompson is unflinching in the face of personal danger. During his first assignment in Moscow, as second secretary between 1940 and 1944, he remained in the Russian capital at the risk of capture to represent the Western powers when other allied diplomats had fled to Kuibyshev before the Nazi advance. For this devotion he was awarded the American Freedom Medal.

Although Thompson shuns the limelight and talks little about his career, his past is not without romance. Born 56 years ago in Las Animas, Colo., he worked on his father's small sheep and cattle ranch. He also held jobs in a hardware store and a logging camp in the Pacific Northwest.

Romantic Tale

It was on his way back to Colorado from Seattle that he met a retired U.S. consul general who told him about the life of a diplomat. Thompson became so fascinated that, upon graduation from the University of Colorado in 1928, he applied for the diplomatic service.

Is Thompson a good ambassador? His critics say he is too retiring. His colleagues say he never loses his head. It's not even sure that he wants to stay or that Kennedy wants to keep him. But all are agreed on one thing: he sits cool in the world's hottest diplomatic seat.

Dear Mr. Milkman

EAST LANSING, MICH.

MILKMAN'S LOT is not a happy one. Not only must be get the homogenized delivered in spite of rain, snow, gloom of night and biting dogs-he also has to read the notes people leave for him in the empty bottles.

And that, judging from a supply of notes collected by the Michigan State University Dairy Department, is the toughest part of a milkman's job.

Milkmen, it seems, are burdened with all the household problems-and are sometimes asked to solve them. They're also asked to help train the dog, aid with diets, lock the doors, decipher orders that would stump a computer.

The oddest request found in a milk bottle is a prize item in the University collection. It goes:

"Both quarts of milk received Wednesday were sour upon arrival. Will you please ring our bell so we can blacken your eves!"

Here are some of the other notes people write:

"To MR. MILKMAN: Please come earlier every time you come because we go to school."

"No cream today. Three quarts of milk.

"P.S. If ever again after writing you when half asleep in the early hours I refer to half pints as pints-please don't believe me."

"Please discontinue milk service. We can't get used to drinking via schedule after years of hand earrying."

"Begin again Friday with the usual order. The whole kit and caboodle is coming back."

"DEAR MILKMAN: According to the latest calorie chart, chocolate milk is 200 calories, white is 170 calories and buttermilk 80 calories. Therefore, because we are now dicting in earnest, our choice from now on will be 2 qts. of buttermilk each delivery—starting today. JUST BUT-TERMILK!

"P.S. Please leave two pounds cottage cheese."

"Dear Mr. Milkman: How come you write poems to apartment 207 but not us? 4 homogenized, 2 skim."

"Mr. MILKMAN, 6 qts. Homo, 1 half & half. Plus here is a piece of cake for you."

"We partaketh of milk, the whole secretion of one or more cows, elsewhere this weekend. NO MILK TODAY, PLEASE."

"MILEMAN: Do not leave any milk today. My wife had a baby boy. Thank you very much."

"MR. MILKMAN: This might be confusing, but will you leave 2 qts. of homogenized, 1 qt. of skim milk today and every other delivery day leave 1 qt. of each in between. Oh yes, no more cream for a while. I'm getting too fat."

"DEAR MILKMAN: Please say hello to the dog so he won't bark so much, maybe."

(Last paragraph of a two-page typewritten letter)-"Maybe you noticed I have used quite a few abbreviations so far. The reason for this is that I don't want to make this letter any longer than necessary. You see, if it is raining, you may get all wet."

"Please do not leave milk after 7:30 unless you knock to see if I am still here.".

"Four homogenized and absolutely no skim. (Them days is gone forever!)"

> "Today our order's cut by one For one of us is 21 To us our milk is very dear But this occasion calls for beer."

"Beginning today please leave just 1/2 pint cream the first two deliveries during the week and the third delivery leave cream and a quart of milk. In other words leave cream only on all deliveries except on weekends when you are to leave a quart of milk also for Sunday, If this isn't clear please knock and I'll explain."

"Will you put the milk inside? Have a cup of coffee,"

Snappy Cranberry Relish

13/3 cups sugar

1 cup water

4 cups fresh cranberries

1 cup seedless raisins

11/2 teaspoons ginger

1/4 teaspoon ground cloves

1 cinnamon stick, 2 inches long

1 onion, thinly sliced

1 apple, chopped

1/2 cup thinly sliced celery

Combine sugar, water, cranberries, raisins and spices in saucepan. Cook until berries pop and mixture starts to thicken, about 20 minutes. Add remaining ingredients; simmer 15 to 20 minutes longer, or until relish is as thick as desired. Discard cinnamon stick. Ladle into hot, sterilized jelly glasses; seal at once with paraffin. Makes about five 8-ounce glasses.

Cranberry-Apple Crown Pie

1/2 cup water 21/2 cups sugar 2 cups diced tart apples

4 cups fresh cranberries 1/2 orange, juice and grated ocel

2 tablespoons cornstarch 2 tablespoons cold water Pastry or pie crust mix 2 egg whites

4 tablespoons sugar

Combine water, sugar, apples, cranberries, orange juice and peel in large saucepan. Cook rapidly about 10 minutes, or until cranberries pop. Mix cornstarch and water; stir into hot fruit mixture. Cook and stir

5 minutes or until mixture is thickened and clear. Prepare enough pastry or pie crust mix for a 10-inch pie. Roll out; fit into pie pan. Pour cooled filling into pie shell. Bake in moderate oven (375°) 20 to 25 minutes. Beat egg whites; add sugar gradually and continue to beat until thick and satiny. Circle edge of pie with meringue. Return to slow oven (325°); bake 15 minutes or until meringue is golden.

Cranberry Coconut Jumbles

3 cups sifted enriched flour

2 teaspoons baking powder 1/4 teaspoon salt

11/2 cups fresh cranberries, coarsely chopped

1 cup fine-grated coconut

1/2 cup shortening

1/2 cup butter or margarine 11/2 cups sugar

3 eggs, well beaten

1 tablespoon grated

lemon peel

1 tablespoon lemon juice

Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt; stir in cranberries and coconut. Cream shortening and butter; gradually add sugar. Add eggs; beat well. Add lemon peel and juice. Gradually stir in flour mixture. Drop from teaspoon on lightly greased cookie sheet. Bake in moderate oven (375°) about 10 minutes or until lightly browned. Makes about 5 dozen 2-inch cookies. Personality Parade

- Q. Was the late Errol Flynn a dope addict? Is that why he was turned down for military service?—H.G., Pasadena, Calif.

 A. Flynn was a dope addict. But his addiction began after he was rejected for-military service because of a heart murmur.
- Q. How old is Vivien Leigh? Is it true, now that Sir Laurence Olivier is divorcing her, that she has already picked out a third husband?—Clare Williamson, Detroit, Mich.
- A. Vivien Leigh, 47, has been seeing a good deal of John Merivale, 42, Canadian-born actor.
- Q. Is it true that David Lloyd George, England's prime minister in World War I, was a woman chaser?—Helen Crenshaw, Los Angeles, Calif.
- A. Says Richard Lloyd George, his son: "My father was probably the greatest natural Don Juan in the history of British politics. His entire life, including the 53 years of marriage with my mother, was involved with a series of affairs with women, some romantic, some deeply obsessive, some cynical and worldly, and most of them fruitful."
- Q. Which college has provided America with the most Presidents?—Bill Gershorn, Boston, Mass.
- A. Harvard. It has given us the two Adamses, the two Roosevelts and President-elect Kennedy.
- Q. Is it true that the Queen of England never wears the same dress twice in public?—Betsy Wales, Lincoln Neb.
- A. No. Queen Elizabeth has worn the same dress on occasions.
- Q. How old is Lloyd Bridges, star of Sca Hunt? Is he married?

 —Dora Albin, Newark, N.J.
- A. Lloyd Bridges is 47 and married. He and his wife Dorothy have three children, Lloyd, 18; Cindy, 17; Jeff, 10.
- Q. Can you tell me why the works of Victor Hugo are included in the Index, the list of books Roman Catholics are forbidden to read?—T.P., Santa Fe, N.M.
- A. Victor Hugo held strong anti-clerical opinions. The present Pope, however, has ordered a special commission to revise the Index. It is expected that of the 5,000 titles on the list, approximately 2,500, including the works of Victor Hugo, will be removed.

My favorite jokes

by MYRON COHEN

EDITOR'S NOTE: As a former silk salesman in New York City's garment center, Myron Cohen had a supply of jokes for every occasion. One afternoon his boss called him into his office and said, "Myron, you're a wonderful story teller, and you should get paid for telling jokes. But not by me." A few weeks later Cohen was entertaining a group of prospective customers in Leon & Eddie's when proprietor Eddie Davis convinced Myron to tell his jokes to the night-club patrons. This was in 1948. Since, Cohen has worked as a professional comic, playing the nation's leading night clubs, theaters and hotels. He has appeared on the Ed Sullivan TV show 28 times, but has yet to exhaust his supply of funny stories. Here are some of his favorites:

Two women were explaining how their husbands earned a living. "My husband," said Mrs. Glass, "is one of the top business consultants in America. He's what they call an efficiency expert."

Mrs. Walsh was puzzled. "What's an efficiency expert, anyway?" she asked.

"Well," explained Mrs. Glass. "Let me put it this way. When we women do it, they call it nagging."

MY OLD BOSS, A. E. Wullschleger, was a very witty guy. One morning he said to his secretary: "Congratulations, Miss Featherstone. This is the earliest you've ever been late."

This happened in New York City's garment center. One afternoon the boss was visited by his wife. It was a surprise visit. The boss was a dress manufacturer, so he offered to take his wife for lunch. As they were going down in the elevator, it stopped at the 12th floor, and a shapely model got on. She smiled, pinched the boss' cheek and kissed him on the lips. "Hello, you little, darling cutie pie," she said.

Without so much as blinking an eyelash, the wife tapped the model on the shoulder, "I'm Mrs. Cutic Pic," she announced.

A 6-YEAR-OLD GIRL brought her nonobjective painting home from school. Her mother looked at it approvingly, then hung it in the living room.

When the little girl saw her painting hanging over the fireplace, she said to her mother, "What's the matter, Mummy, don't you like my art work?"

"Of course, dear," the mother said.
"I simply adore it. Why do you ask?"

"Then why did you hang it upside down?" asked the child.

I LIKE THE ONE about the Hollywood producer who was scheduled to marry a starlet he had discovered. "Darling," he told her one afternoon. "They didn't pick up my contract. I'm finished, out of a job. Worse yet, I'm flat broke."

Said the starlet, "Don't worry, sweetheart, I'll always love you, even if I never see you again."

THE LATE JOHN BARRYMORE was once confronted by an attractive blonde.

"Don't you remember me?" she asked. "Don't you honestly remember me? Five years ago you asked me to marry you."

Barrymore yawned. "And did you?"

"Max," THE IRATE WIFE screamed.
"You've gone and done it this time.
You're not only a drunken good-fornothing. You're not only a bum. You're not only a gambler, but you've lost me the only good maid we ever had."

Max, who was a little drunk, said, protestingly: "What'd I have to do with the maid leaving?"

"You shouted at her over the phone. You used vile, insulting words."

"Gee!" exclaimed the husband. "I'm awful sorry, honey. I thought all the time I was talking to you."

STOP OILY SKIN TO CHECK

Don't pick, scratch, squeeze or merely "cover them up"

Doctors know that acne or pimples are caused by the germ called the aone bacillus. These germs invade overactive oil glands in the skin, cause blackheads and pus pockets; then your skin "breaks out."

What's needed is (1) to dry up the excessive oil that collects on skin; (2) to destroy acne germs on the skin, and (3) to stop itching and irritation so pimples can heal.

A doctor's formula, liquid Zemo has this effective 3-way action; also keeps skin looking cleaner!

Puppy-dog tales

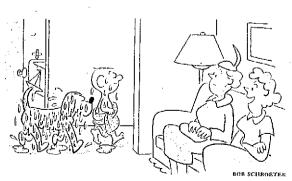

"Dogs delight to bark and bite," said a wise man once. He might have added that they also get a kick out of eating slippers, nipping strangers and making slaves out of their gullible human companions.
